

Free Suspect In Slaying of Mother, Son; Push Inquiry

Sheriff, Aides Inves- tigate Along Line Of New Theory

DELAY INQUEST

Funeral Services for Pair
Will be Held Wednesday Morning

Releasing a suspect who was questioned yesterday in the cold-blooded murders of Mrs. Anne Van Camp, 77, and her son, William, 31, Saturday night at their farm home five miles north of Little Chute, Sheriff John Lappen and his aides today pressed their investigation along two new lines of inquiry on the theory that the shot-gun killings might have been committed in spite rather than with a robbery motive.

The suspect questioned yesterday had been taken into custody by Brown county authorities. District Attorney Raymond P. Dohr said today that Brown county authorities have been asked to assist the Outagami county sheriff's department in the investigation.

Sheriff Lappen stated that he plans to question all former employes of the farm in an attempt to find a possible clue to the killing.

A Milwaukee man, who did not give his name, yesterday reported that he was driving in the vicinity of the farm about 10 o'clock Saturday night and that he stopped when he saw someone lying in the ditch along the town road. He said that he found two youths, about 15 and 16 years of age, in the ditch and that they waved him on, saying that he should "mind your own business." Lappen said he was of the opinion that the youths had been drinking but had nothing to do with the killings. However, this angle is being investigated further, he said.

Found By Neighbor

The bodies of Mrs. Van Camp and her son were found by John Verkuilen, the nearest neighbor of the Van Camps and who was employed on their farm about 6:45 Sunday morning when William failed to appear for morning chores.

The body of William was found lying on the back porch, while the body of Mrs. Van Camp was found in her bed. Apparently she was killed as she slept, Sheriff Lappen said. Both had died instantly from shotgun blasts in the face.

The shooting may have occurred between 9 and 10 o'clock Saturday night, according to Sheriff Lappen.
He said it has been established that William had played ball with a group in the neighborhood early in the evening and that he had gone directly home between 8:30 and 9 o'clock. William apparently had taken a bath and shaved immediately before the shooting as he was partly dressed when his body was found.

Heard Noise

Sheriff Lappen said that a neighbor reported he heard a noise about 9:30 like a board falling. He went outside his home and noticed a light at the Van Camp home. Sheriff Lappen said that the noise might have been the shooting.

The inquest set for Thursday today was postponed, according to the district attorney who said that he will be in Madison on that day getting the stamp of approval of the attorney general on courthouse
bonds which were sold last week.

The inquest, when scheduled, will be held at Freedom, he said.

Funeral services for the murdered
pair will be held at 9 o'clock Thursday morning at St. Nicholas church.
Freedom, the cortege leaving the Greenwood funeral home, Kaukauna, at 8:15. The Rev. A. W. Van Dyke will be in charge and burial will be in the parish cemetery.

Hull Is Reported Convinced Allies Will Defeat Nazis

Washington—(AP)—Secretary of State Hull was reliably represented today as convinced that the allies eventually would defeat Germany.

This was on the basis of a speech last night before the American Society of International Law in which Hull urged his listeners "to hold fast to the conviction that law and morality will triumph over the forces of lawlessness and chaos which have again risen to challenge the very concept of order under law
—just as they have, in the past, triumphed over similar challenges."

As for himself, he said, "I am certain of that triumph."

Throughout the address, characterized by associates as the strongest he has made since the outbreak of the European war, Hull did not name any European nation.

Pension Bill Is Given House O.K., 247 to 31

Asks Payments to Dependent Widows, Children of Vets

Washington—(AP)—The house, reversing itself, voted today to provide $50,000,000 for farm tenants out of Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds. Three months ago, the chamber refused to increase a $70,000,000 fund provided in a previous measure. The senate, however, insisted on the increase and the house agreed to change its position today by a roll call vote of 197 to 153.

Washington—(AP)—The senate received today a house-approved bill to pension dependent widows, children and parents of dead World war veterans at an immediate cost estimated at $40,000,000 a year.

Representative Costello (D-Calif.) an opponent, told the house during debate on the proposal yesterday that the expense would rise to "a cold billion dollars a year" by 1968.

Representative Massingale (D-Okla.) said this was a good time to demonstrate that "war means the expenditure of billions of dollars."

The house passed the measure, 247 to 31, without a roll call vote.
There was no indication whether the senate would act at this session.

The pensions would be payable regardless of whether a veteran's death resulted directly from his war service. An orphan would get $12 a month, a parent or childless widow $20, and a widow with children up to $56. An applicant, to be eligible, would have to be receiving an income of less than $50 a month.

From the veterans administration came an estimate that 30,500 childless widows, 66,700 widows with children, 23,500 orphans, and parents of 32,800 deceased veterans would be eligible for pensions in the first year.

Union Committee Wants Roosevelt to Call Na- tional Confab

Chicago—(AP)—Officers of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee proposed today that President Roosevelt call a "national unemployment conference" to obtain a "healthy development of long-range economic planning."

In a report read before the second S.W.O.C. convention by Chairman Philip Murray, they recommended that leaders of government, industry, labor and farm groups be invited to such a meeting.

"A conference of this description would obviously necessitate a broader discussion of our whole national economy and encompass an exchange of ideas that might develop constructive proposals to which each of the groups represented in such a meeting might subscribe," the report said.

"It naturally would entail lengthy discussion that presupposes a healthy development of long-range
economic planning."

Urges Conference On Unemployment

The inquest set for Thursday today was postponed, according to the district attorney who said that he will be in Madison on that day getting the stamp of approval of the attorney general on courthouse
bonds which were sold last week.

The inquest, when scheduled, will
be held at Freedom, he said.

Funeral services for the murdered
pair will be held at 9 o'clock Thursday morning at St. Nicholas church.

Dock Worker Killed In Green Bay Tragedy

Green Bay—(AP)—The fact that he was wearing gloves cost Albert Ceasar, 24, his life yesterday.

Ceasar was working on a dock here when a hook on an unloading winch caught in his glove and lifted him high above a Northern Paper Mills pulpwood steamer.

Then the glove tore loose and he plunged to his death in the ship's hold.

Bargains on Wide Variety of Merchandise Will be Offered Shopping Crowds Appleton Day

Visit as many stores as possible that's the advice for shoppers offered today by the committee which is planning Appleton day Thursday.

Because more than 60 merchants will participate in the special bargain event and because every store will for that day offer the best quality goods at great savings, the committee feels shoppers will want to take advantage of as many bargains as will fill their needs.

By visiting a good number of stores, they will be in a position to "snap up" bargains on a wide range of merchandise.

The committee has received permission from the city council to declare Thursday a "no limit" parking day for out-of-town customers in order to help shoppers who will drive into the city for the bargain event.

Complete information on Appleton day goes out to the rural routes in today's Post-Crescent. For readers serviced by carriers, the Appleton day supplement will appear in Wednesday's edition.

Clerks will wear Appleton day badges, participating stores will be decorated with streamers, and attractive new window displays will brighten up the downtown section on Thursday.

Merchants have reported making special buying trips into Chicago and other large centers to obtain new and useful merchandise for this week's spring bargain event.

Kitchen appliances, sporting goods, furniture, clothing, and radios are just a few of the articles that will be offered at greatly reduced prices on Appleton day.

Germans Drive Wedge Between Dutch and Belgians; Sedan Falls

'Great Battle of West' Now Underway, French Declare

Momentum in Drive Carries Invaders to Meuse River; Struggle May Decide Out- come of Entire War

Paris—(AP)—A French military spokesman conceded this morning that the city of Sedan, 10 miles within France in the fortified border zone below the Belgian border, "probably has been taken" by German attackers.

The high command earlier had admitted that the Germans, gaining momentum in their push through southeastern Belgium, had crossed France's northern border and it was generally conceded that the long-awaited "great battle of the west" had at last begun.

The German advance, the French communique disclosed, was part of a push which carried the Germans to the Meuse river on an 80-mile front extending northward from Sedan through the Belgian town of Namur to Liege, key point in Belgium's eastern defenses.

Military advices have indicated that it was along this line that the allies planned to make their stand against the Germans in a battle expected to prove a decisive factor in the outcome of the entire war.

The Germans were reported to have concentrated a massive attack, supported by tanks and airplanes, in the Sedan sector.
The town, which is on the south bank of the Meuse, was emptied of its civilian population.

Fighting at Dinant

Equally heavy fighting was reported by the French at the Belgian town of Dinant, 15 miles south of Namur on the Meuse. Dinant likewise was abandoned by civilians.

The French communique said the nazis attack was increasing everywhere, and that the Germans had used two full divisions in their drive to the Meuse. Sedan is located in the northern extension of the Maginot line.

The French reported repulse of a German assault at Longwy—near the French frontier near the junction of the Belgian and Luxembourg borders—after bitter street fighting. The French still

Navy Asks Added 300 Million for Building Program

Wants to Speed Construc- tion of 68 Combat, Auxiliary Ships

Washington—(AP)—The navy recommended today that congress provide immediately an additional $300,000,000 to speed up construction of 68 combat and auxiliary ships now on the ways. A 48-hour work week for government and private shipyards also was proposed.

At the White House, it was disclosed that President Roosevelt, planning a message to congress later in the week, would leave up to the legislators a decision on whether to finance proposed increases in defense costs by enacting new tax or raising the federal debt limit and borrowing the money.

Hulls Needed

Rear Admiral S. M. Robinson, coordinator of ship construction, told the house naval committee that about $250,000,000 of the $300,000,000 extra he recommended would be needed to expedite construction of hulls and machinery and that about $45,000,000 more would be needed for ordnance and armor.

Robinson declared the navy also wants to put navy and private shipyards on a three-shift basis. He conceded, in response to questions by Chairman Vinton (D-Calif.) that it would be about nine months before the yards would be in "full swing" at the projected faster pace.

Robinson testified at the opening of an extraordinary inquiry by the committee to determine ways and means of stepping up the building program.

Hohenzollerns Try In Vain to Learn Fate of Ex-Kaiser

Berlin—(AP)—All attempts by the Hohenzollern family to learn something concerning the fate of the venerable head of the dynasty, former Kaiser Wilhelm II, have failed.

(The German-Dutch fighting is believed to be in the vicinity of the former Kaiser's exile retreat at Doorn, which is near Utrecht.)

"We don't even know whether grandpa still is at Doorn," one grandson said today.

"So far as grandpa himself is concerned, all he desires is to be left in peace on his little Dutch estate."

The former Kaiser is 81.

Dutch Army Falls Back as Germans Continue Attack

Takes New Position on Main Water Defense Line in Utrecht

Amsterdam—(AP)—The Dutch field army defending western Holland has fallen back before the German attack to their strong, main water defense line in Utrecht province, the high command announced today.

The communique was issued by General Henri Gerard Winkelman, commander-in-chief of Holland's land and sea forces and the highest representative in Holland of the Dutch government, which now is in England.

He announced that German forces in control of northeastern provinces had failed in an attempt to capture the vital 16-mile dike separating the IJsselmeer (Zuider Zee) from the North Sea.

The commander-in-chief said the government left Holland in view of war veteran and member of the Eau Claire American Legion post, committed suicide in Putnam drive here last night by setting off a charge of dynamite he had tied to his chest. The body was found this morning by members of a city work crew.

Semington left a note saying he had been in ill health and out of Employables on Relief Compelled to Take Jobs

Milwaukee—(AP)—County officials took steps today to compel employables on the relief rolls to accept work if it is offered.

office at least once a week and will be dropped from the rolls if he does not accept work.

Allied Situation in Southern Holland Is 'Extremely Serious'

Brussels—(AP)—The Belgian high command reported tonight that its forces took up new defense positions last night "without suffering any losses."

Belgium's cabinet, with air-raisers screaming through the city and anti-aircraft batteries in action, declared, however, that it would remain in the capital—the goal of a German army driving westward from the Liege area.

London—(AP)—Germany's smashing attacks created an "extremely serious" situation for allied warriors in southern Holland today. In Belgium a great battle was developing for possession of the capital, Brussels.

A military source appraising the widespread conflict for supremacy in the lowland countries said that it would be a few days before the course of the war could be told, but that British troops were cooperating with Belgian soldiers in defense of Brussels.

A Netherlands army communique admitted that the Germans fully control the northern Holland provinces, but said that "Rotterdam on the north side of the River Maas is in our hands."

The Netherlands government of Premier Dierck Jen de Geer arrived today to join Queen Wilhelmina and the other members of the Dutch royal family who sought sanctuary in England.

Fighting at Liege

The British military source who said that the situation in southern Holland is "extremely serious" also said it was reported in London as "likely" that Liege was isolated, but expressed belief that fighting is going on.

Urged to Leave Rome

Washington—(AP)—Secretary Hull said today that Ambassador William Phillips in Rome was calling to the attention of American citizens in Italy the same kind of notice and warning to leave that has been given in other European countries now at war.

Hull made the statement at his press conference after receiving dispatches which described anti-British and anti-French demonstrations in Rome and other Italian cities.

The notice and warning given Americans in other countries in Europe was to the effect that, conditions being serious, they had better leave while communications were open, because in case war spread, it might be difficult for them to get out.

European War Bulletins

London—(AP)—Lord Beaverbrook, famed newspaper publisher, tonight was appointed minister for aircraft production. Other cabinet appointments announced tonight were Sir John Reith, former minister of information, to be minister of transport, and Dr. Hugh Dalton, laborite, minister of economic warfare.

Basel, Switzerland—(AP)—Big guns of the German westwall and the French Maginot line along the Rhine north of Basel thundered late today for the first time in weeks. Military observers here believed the duel was started by the French in an effort to smash nazis radio communications incorporated in the westwall from Karlsruhe and Freiburg.

Paris—(AP)—A French military spokesman said this afternoon the "greater part" on the Dutch seaport city of Rotterdam was in flames and the situation growing increasingly grave.

New York—(AP)—Two addresses from London by Queen Wilhelmina, of the Netherlands, will be broadcast by the Mutual Broadcasting system Wednesday at 3 p.m., and 8 p.m. (3 and 7 p.m. C.S.T.). MBS officials said the two broadcasts would be in English and would be different in content.

Brussels—(AP)—Belgium called to arms today all men from 16 to 35 years old who belong to the last group of recruitable reserves. The call was contained in a national defense ministry communique.

Belgrade, Yugoslavia—(AP)—Yugoslavia was reported tonight tonight to have sounded out Greece on what assistance the Greeks might give this country in the event of an Italian attack.

Berlin—(AP)—It was announced officially tonight that German fighting planes shot down 70 enemy planes in the Sedan area near the French-Belgian border today. The Germans are fighting on French soil in this sector.

London—(AP)—The war office announced tonight that new allied forces had landed successfully at Bjerkvik, seven miles north of Narvik, Norway, with only "a few minor casualties." "Bjerkvik is in the rear of the German positions in the Grattangen area, where our forces made a successful attack at the same time," said a communique.

Tokio—(AP)—The foreign office announced today that the Japanese consul general at Batavia had filed with the governor of the Netherlands East Indies a protest against anti-Japanese demonstrations said to have taken place there.

Paris—(AP)—The French government, striving to keep Italy from entering the war on Germany's side, delivered objections to Rome today against the anti-allied campaign in the fascist press.

Paris—(AP)—The war ministry announced tonight that "agricultural leaves" granted soldiers to work on farms were cancelled. The men were called to rejoin their posts Thursday and Friday. Other leaves already had been cancelled.

Berlin Reports British and French Can't Help Holland

Claims Nazi Troops Cross Into France, Smash Key Defenses of Belgium and Netherlands and Capture Liege

Berlin—(AP)—The German high command announced tonight that Rotterdam, great western Netherlands seaport, had capitulated.

The text of the high command's announcement:
"Under tremendous pressure of the attacks of German diving bombers and the approaching attack of armored units on the city, Rotterdam has capitulated and thereby preserved itself from destruction."

"In north Belgium, German armored units have reached Lilgny, historic battleground of 1815, in pursuit of the retreating enemy."

London—(AP)—A broadcast heard in London tonight identified by the announcer as coming from the Dutch radio quoted the Dutch army commander, General Henri Gerard Winkelman, as declaring "our resistance has been broken by overwhelming power."

(The Associated Press has no direct report on this from Amsterdam).

The broadcast said that Rotterdam and Utrecht, second and fourth cities of the Netherlands, had surrendered.

The broadcast said Rotterdam was bombed and Utrecht threatened with destruction so, "to save further sacrifice of men," the cities have surrendered.

It added that Dutch troops are "at the moment asked to exercise control and await the arrival of the German armies."

Berlin—(AP)—The Belgian and Dutch armies have been separated by a powerful German wedge, DNB, official German news agency, reported today from the western front.

It said that French and British forces were unable to reach the Dutch armies to help them and that the Dutch, therefore, either must surrender or be annihilated.

The German tactics, DNB declared, has rendered unimportant Belgium's Albert canal position which was conceived as a strong defense line between the North sea coast at Antwerp and Liege, near the German frontier—in other words, from the Scheldt river to the Meuse.

In Belgium, DNB said, the allies were thrown back at the Gette river, about 15 miles east of Louvain, which is 18 miles east of Brussels. The Germans were reported pursuing the British, French and Belgian troops toward Louvain and Wavre, on the Dyle river.

Zimmerman Selects Heil as His Alternate

Madison—(AP)—Secretary of State
Fred Zimmerman, delegate to the Republican national convention, announced Governor Julius P. Heil as his alternate.

The Republican delegation is pledged to District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, for the presidential nomination. Zimmerman said he had notified Dewey headquarters in Milwaukee the governor would act as his alternate and that he anticipated selection of other alternates would be announced soon.

German troops crossed into France today, the fifth day of the nazi blitzkrieg through the lowlands, and the nazi high command declared they also had smashed through key defenses in Belgium and the Netherlands.

Today's communique claimed these successes:

France — "The French-Luxembourg and French-Belgium border up to the point of Metzler-Char-ville has been reached nearly everywhere and crossed in many places."

Holland — "... We succeeded in expanding our piercing of the Grebbe line southward of Amersfoort and gained area in the direction of Utrecht... Our troops
... pierced through as far as Rotterdam."

Belgium — "The city of Liege is in German hands. In the region south of the line from Liege to Namur our troops left the Ardennes (mountains) behind and vanguards reached the Meuse between Namur and Givet."

Nazi military leaders, claiming a steady advance along the entire front, declared the fighting thus far, in Holland and Belgium, fierce as it has been, is but a prelude to a gi-gantic struggle which may dwarf the World war's first battle of the Marne.

Battle in Belgium

This conflict was expected to take place somewhere in southern Belgium, where the allies were reported massing their combined armies for a stand.

German commentators pinned their confidence in the outcome of the impending head-on collision on the fighting qualities of the nazi soldiers and the asserted superiority of the German air force to which they gave credit for the victories already won in the low countries.

Air strength was said to have been enhanced by the destruction of more than 1,000 enemy airplanes in the first three days of the "real" war, the German radio declared.
Nazi air losses were described as comparatively small.

(French official sources said the Germans had lost at least 400 planes up to noon yesterday.)

Thus far, German military men said, even the most modern fortifications in Belgium and Holland have proved no real obstacle.

This, they said, was proved by the capture yesterday of the citadel of

Ohio Democrats, Republicans are Naming Delegates

North Dakota Instructs Its Representation to Vote for FDR

Washington—Ohio Democrats and Republicans are voting today to throw their big blocs of national convention delegates to President Roosevelt and Senator Robert A. Taft, respectively.

The two men were unopposed in presidential primary balloting. The Democratic delegation, with 52 votes, pledged nominally to national committeeman Charles Sawyer as a "favorite son," but the party's state organization has bound it to support the president if he runs again.

The Ohio Republican delegation is the first one, aside from two district delegates in North Carolina, to be chosen formally for Taft.

Taft Claims Support
The Ohio senator claims unopposed support in several states, however, his managers hoped that at least part of the unpledged West Virginia delegation being elected today in a primary would back him.

West Virginia Democrats also were picking an uninstructed 16 vote delegation, while in Connecticut a Republican convention was called together to select 16 delegates.

North Dakota's eight national convention votes were won by Mr. Roosevelt yesterday in a Democratic state convention. At the same time, Wyoming Democrats instructed their six vote delegation to cast its first presidential ballot for Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney of that state, but thereafter it would be free to support Mr. Roosevelt if he seeks a third term.

Hard-fought contests for senatorial and gubernatorial nominations were involved in the Ohio and West Virginia primaries. Gov. John W. Barker (R-Ohio) was unopposed for re-nomination, but seven Democrats were battling to oppose him in November. In the field were two former governors, Martin L. Davey and George White.

Senator Vic Donahey (D-Ohio) was not a candidate for another term. Seeking the Republican nomination were Mayor Harold Burton of Cleveland, Rep. Dudley White and Charles W. Wharton, a Kenton merchant. In the Democratic race were former Rep. John McSweeney and Herbert S. Bigelow, sponsor of the old age pension plan defeated in Ohio last year.

A factional Democratic struggle in West Virginia included the unusual situation of a senator, M. M. Neely, trying for the nomination of governor. He had C. I. O. backing against state chairman R. Carl Andrews, candidate for governor.

Mr. Holt and the "statehouse" forces. A third candidate was R. Hugh Jarvis, Morgantown coal operator.

Senator Rush D. Holt, youngest senator ever to take his seat, was up for re-nomination against Judge Harley Kilgore, former governor H. G. Kump, and State Senator J. Buhl Shahan.

The Republican senatorial contest was fought by Sen. Charles E. McNair, Carl Bachmann, former governor E. F. Morgan, Circuit Judge Decatur Rodgers, and State Senator Thomas B. Sweeney.

Seeking the Republican nomination for governor were Mayor D. B. Dawson of Charleston, Circuit Judge Lewis H. Miller, and State Senator D. B. Ealy.

Maine Republicans yesterday nominated their first woman candidate for congress. She is Mrs. Margaret Smith, 38, who wants to complete the unexpired term of her late husband, Rep. Clyde H. Smith.

The Democrats did not enter a candidate for the special election June 3.

Several Streets Are Approved for Curbs and Gutters

Workmen yesterday started to pour concrete for curb and gutters on Packard street, from Bader avenue west, according to L. M. Schindler, city engineer. The work is being done under a WPA project.

Other streets on the approved list for curbs and gutters this summer are Franklin street from Richmond street to Bader avenue, Fair street from Atlantic street north to Spring street, Lorain street from Richmond street north to Mason street, E. Parkway boulevard from Drew street to Lave street, Second street from Outagamie street to the railroad tracks, S. Story street from Spencer street to Prospect avenue.

Spencer street from the railroad tracks west to Mason street, Winnebago street south from Bader avenue to Richmond street, Atlantic street from Richmond street to Tonka street, Rankin street from the end of the present pavement north to Wisconsin avenue, Parkway boulevard from Onondaga street to Richmond street, N. Superior street from Parkway boulevard north to the city limits.

Hendricks, Blessman High at Police Shoot
Walter Hendricks and Harold Blessman hit perfect scores in Monday's pistol practice of the police department at the armory. Herbert Kapp, Lester Van Roy and Harry Salzman tied for second on scores of 85 out of a possible 100. Four men tied for third place, Joseph Broutard, Gustave Herkner, George Behrendt and John Duval, with 90 out of a possible 100.

Each man was instructed to enter the shooting range, proceed to the stall and commence firing at a half-size silhouette from a distance of 60 feet. The contestant was allowed 15 seconds from the time he entered for every five shots.

Corcoran Denies He Profited from Sales

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—James Corcoran of Webster, chairman of the state conservation commission, admitted in questioning by the state bureau of research this morning that he knew Byron Selves had cut more timber than allowed in his agreement with the state conservation department in a land exchange, but said that the department had been repaid for the over-cutting.

The research bureau this morning continued its examination of the business dealings between Corcoran, a pulpwood dealer, and Selves, who, it has been testified, regularly sells timber to the commission chairman, who in turn sells it to paper and pulp mills.

The proceedings at the hearing this morning grew heated at several points.

Once, when Commissioner August Frey, presiding, refused to allow Corcoran to make a statement about what he termed the "unfair and misleading questioning" of James Fornary, bureau counsel, he announced angrily that "the day is coming when I'm going to have something to say about Mr. Fornary and his method of procedure."

Corcoran, former chairman of the Democratic state central committee, a member of the commission for eight years and its chairman during the last year, was questioned for almost three hours yesterday afternoon by James Fornary, counsel for the research bureau, and Commissioner August Frey, put in command of the departmental investigation unit by Governor Heil last year.

Admonished by Governor Heil to investigate the conservation department "from stem to stern," Fornary and Frey yesterday afternoon questioned Corcoran at length about his relations with Byron Selves, with whom the conservation department has entered into land trade arrangements.

Fornary sought to show not only that Corcoran had a personal and pecuniary interest in the Vilas county land transfers for which he voted as a conservation commissioner, but that his "business associate," Selves, actually took from the state tracks more timber than his agreement called for.

Corcoran, however, steadfastly denied that Selves is a "business associate," or that he had in mind anything but the welfare of the state when he voted with other commissioners in 1936 in approving the trade of state lands for tracts held by Selves.

Fornary explored at length and in detail Corcoran's lumber business, and brought out that his dealings in buying and selling pulpwood extend over most of northwestern Wisconsin.

Although the conservation commission chairman admitted that he supplied Selves with equipment in the latter's logging jobs, that he paid for the lumber camp supplies and met the lumber camp payroll on Selves' jobs, and that he undertook to buy all of Selves' timber output, Corcoran denied although the question was put in different ways by Fornary at least a score of times during the long hearing yesterday—that Selves is a "business associate," or that he had any specific agreements with him in the logging of the state-traded land or any other.

He admitted also that the timber taken from the traded state tracts were shipped to him, and bought by him, and sold to paper companies, but he said that he was unable to furnish records showing how much profit accrued or the amount of timber thus obtained.

"Selves buys timber and he sells it to me," he declared.

He never had the exclusive buying rights to Selves' production, although he bought most of it, Corcoran testified.

Sought Profit
Fornary produced records showing that Ed Baldwin, trucker, testified before the public service commission, in applying for a trucking license, that he was engaged in the transportation of logs for Corcoran in Vilas county. Corcoran denied that he had engaged Baldwin.

The research bureau offered an exhibit consisting of a piece of pulpwood which Frey said was logged from a tract of state land adjoining that acquired by Selves. It bore a stamped initial "C," which Corcoran said "might be made" by his stamping tools.

When Fornary returned to Corcoran's vote approving the transfer as a member of the commission, and demanded to know "what was in your mind, your subconscious thought," Corcoran said that "I never, of course, presume to make a transaction without expecting to make a profit, but in this case I was concerned with preserving the beauty of the highway."

He characterized the amount of the purchase from Selves—which the state declared amounted to about 9,000 cords valued at a dollar a cord—as a "drop in the bucket" of his total business.

April Snow Removal
Cost Totals $88.03
An unusual cost was listed in the city street department's report for April, $88.03 for snow removal. The money was spent in clearing sidewalks at intersections after the unusual snow storm in April. Fire Department Receives $3,000 From State Levy

Appleton Must Spend Funds for Maintenance of Service

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—Payment of the special state aid to municipalities for support of local fire departments was completed by the state treasury this week.

Those localities which maintain approved fire departments annually receive from the state financial assistance representing the revenue from a 2 per cent tax on the gross premiums of fire insurance companies.

There are no restrictions put on the funds except that they must be expended for the maintenance of the local fire fighting services.

The following amounts were among those certified for payment to municipalities in the Appleton area.

Tigerton $144; Waupaca $433; Weyauwega $177; Wittenberg $131; Appleton $3,186; Black Creek $60; Brillion $194; Chilton $337; Clintonville $392; Combined Locks $20; Denmark $156; Fremont $76; Hilbert $83; Hortonville $120; Iola $80; Kaukauna $691; Kimberly $149; Little Chute $172; Manawa $91; Menasha $1,125; Neenah $1,202; New London $544; Potter $99; Seymour $218; Shawano $709.

War Situation Today

The fiercest fighting of the war—fast blazing into the "greatest battle of all time"—raged along the Meuse river between France and Belgium today.

French dispatches said the Germans supported their mechanized land forces with an air armada of between 6,000 and 7,000 planes.

Historic Sedan, 10 miles inside the French frontier, was reported captured.

At least 2,000 tanks have clashed in combat. The French said German losses in this action were "tremendous." Berlin sources denied it.

Nazis reported 150 enemy planes were destroyed yesterday, raising the total allied losses to more than 850. The French said more than 400 German planes had been put out of action in the five-day-old conflict.

Heavy fighting started last night and continued today with undiminished fury along the Meuse line. French and Belgian troops fell back on strong defenses in a "strategic withdrawal."

A great battle was reported developing for the possession of Brussels, capital of Belgium.

German troops threw back British, French and Belgian forces at the Gette river east of Louvain, Belgium, and pursued them toward Louvain and Wavre, DNB, official German news agency announced.

In Amsterdam, Holland, huge stores of petroleum were set a fire today by the Dutch as a defensive measure.

The Dutch high command reported that a German drive at the vital 16-mile dam across the Zuider Zee, which holds back the North sea, has been repulsed.

The French conceded the "probable" fall of Sedan—in the fortified Franco-Belgian defense zone—directly before France's "little Maginot" line extension to the North sea.

The British acknowledged that Nazi blitzkrieg legions were driving through southern Holland to make the situation there "extremely serious" for the allies.

The Dutch field army defending western Holland fell back before the savage German onslaught, retiring to their main water-line defense line in Utrecht province, the high command announced.

Berlin reported German forces in central Holland had blasted through the Dutch Grebbe defense system and are advancing toward Utrecht.

In Rome and other Italian cities, the flame of anti-allied feeling blazed ever higher.

The British consuls in Italy were reported advising British citizens to leave the country.

German parachutists were reported dumped from the sky into Brussels. A French news agency (Havas) dispatch said they were pounced on by the inhabitants as fast as they touched ground and one was lynched after he tried to use his firearms.

Break Through Sedan Front
Would Prove Grave Threat to Paris, Would Isolate Holland

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
New York—Critical for the allies is word that the Germans, developing increased volume in their fierce attack, have swept through the heart of the Belgian defense system and across the French frontier to the historic city of Sedan.

This town lies 10 miles within what is known as the "little Maginot line," which is the advance defense of the Maginot line proper that runs along the Franco-Belgian border to the sea.

What all the belligerent capitals agree will be one of the greatest battles of history cannot be long delayed in view of this development.

The allies will rally every ounce of strength for a stand along the Sedan front, and the Germans are reported to be making a massive drive here, supported by tanks and airplanes.

A break through here would establish a grave threat to Paris itself. We may be seeing another battle of the Marne developing.

It was at Sedan that the Prussians in 1870 defeated the vast forces of Marshal MacMahon and compelled a surrender. Paris was taken and the war ended.

Fierce Fighting
The French report fierce fighting along the route of the German advance from Namur southward through Dinant to Sedan. This indicates that while the nazis have been able to break through, they haven't routed the allied defenders.

The fact that the Hitlerian forces have made this abrupt thrust to the south tends to substantiate the general belief that this is indeed Hitler's great effort to smash the allies and win the war in a lightning attack.

If the Germans break through the Maginot line in the Sedan sector, they will have the entire British expeditionary force, in addition to French and Belgian armies, on their left. The Nazi effort would be to roll these armies back and sweep on to Paris, and ultimately through to the coast.

One of the gravest threats against the allies and especially against England, as it appeared from developments this morning, was the rapid advance of the Germans through southern Holland to the coast. Most of the northern two-thirds of the country already was in German hands.

Capture of this southern strip along the Belgian-Dutch border would effectively sever connections between the two countries and more or less isolate Holland from allied aid, excepting what could be rendered by sea or by air.

Reaching Objective
Thus Herr Hitler would seem to be bringing to fruition one of his chief ambitions in his invasion of the low countries—the occupation of the Dutch coast so he could get at England with his air force.

It is even conceivable that the quick German thrust towards Sedan is for the purpose of diverting allied support from the Dutch theater so that the German conquest there may be completed quickly. That would be logical even if Holland is Hitler's main objective.

However, it must be admitted that the assault looks much bigger than this limited objective. Naturally the course of the conflict will be determined by circumstances. The Germans are prime opportunists and will thrust or withdraw as conditions warrant.

If the German purpose were indeed to crash the allied front at the Belgian border, they might have taken any one of several other routes which have been well worn by other armies. It may easily be that the drive to Sedan did indeed represent a quick shift in strategy due to some development, which isn't apparent to the outside world. Presumably pursuit of the drive in this direction will depend on the success attending the initial stages of the big battle which undoubtedly is beginning.

The position of Italy remains one of anxiety for the allies. Mussolini still conceals his intentions, although the anti-allied campaign continues apace.

One thing obviously it does is doing—he is supporting Hitler by creating this anti-allied diversion in order to hold Anglo-French forces at attention in the Mediterranean. Even if the Italian leader goes no further, he is rendering his axis partner a great service as it is.

Emma Goldman, Famous Radical, Dies at Toronto

Imprisoned During World War and Later Deported to Russia

Toronto—(P)—Death came today to Emma Goldman, once the flaming champion of anarchy in America.

Ill since suffering a stroke in February, she would have been 71 years old on June 27.

At the bedside in her home were a brother, Dr. Maurice Goldman, and a niece, Mrs. Stella Ballantine, both of New York. Mrs. Lena Cummings, a sister of Rochester, N. Y., also survives.

Her death raised echoes of a radicalism that extended back for half a century and reached its climax in the World War years that brought "Red Emma" Goldman's imprisonment and later deportation from the United States to Russia in 1919 for obstructing the draft. With her went Alexander Berkman, her companion and colleague for two-score years.

Fled From Russia
In the new Soviet Russia she quickly found disillusionment, and fled to roam in many parts of the world, still a strident voice for social changes, but somehow lacking the old-time urgency.

In 1924 she published a book, "My Disillusionment in Russia."

Two years later she appeared in Montreal as Mrs. James Colton, announcing she had married a Welsh miner, and thus was a British subject.

Vainly she sought admittance to the United States.

She went to France, and 1930, while living at Nice, wrote an autobiography.

While lecturing in Canada in 1934, she finally won permission to visit the United States for 90 days.

She made a few lectures in New York and elsewhere, expressed displeasure with nazism and predicted the downfall of Adolf Hitler, then returned to Canada when the permit expired.

On June 28, 1936, a quiet, obscure resident of Nice was found shot to death—a suicide, police said. He proved to be Alexander Berkman.

State Continues To Create Ponds To Attract Ducks

Water Holes Will be Blasted in Navarino Marsh This Week

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—A second demonstration in the blasting of water holes in marshy areas for the benefit of wild ducks will be given this week in the Navarino marsh in Shawano county, just over the Outagamie county line. It was learned here today.

On a site selected by R. H. Fischer of Shawano, secretary of the state conservation commission, conservation department experts will dynamite pot holes to create small artificial ponds which it is expected will lure ducks for nesting locations.

The idea was proposed to the conservation commission several months ago by Commissioner Mark Catlin of Appleton, who said that it would be useful in showing sportsmen what they can do to improve wildlife habitat in their particular sections of the state.

The first project was undertaken on the Rat river marsh near Zittau in Winnebago county several weeks ago. Last week Catlin and W. F. Gummer, state superintendent of game management who is supervising the work, reported to the commission that the holes blasted in that area have already attracted ducks.

Catlin also related that the idea has been adopted by at least eight private sportsmen's organizations in other parts of the state, and predicted that it will soon become popular for conservation groups who are anxious to develop work projects in their local projects.

Asks Clarification Of Prison Sentence
Madison—(P)—Federal Judge Charles G. Bringle took under advisement yesterday the plea of Elmer W. Klein, 41, of Nashotah, for clarification of the sentence he is serving at the Sandstone, Minn., federal prison.

Klein, a bondsman, was convicted in federal court at Milwaukee about 13 months ago of corrupting the testimony of a court witness. His sentence, as signed, ordered a year's imprisonment, payment of a $1,000 fine, and that he be held in prison "until payment of said fine, or until he is otherwise discharged as provided by law."

Klein's counsel said the oral sentence contained no mention of remaining in prison pending payment of the fine.

Judge Bringle, of Springfield, Ill., is presiding in federal court here temporarily.

Wisconsin Weather This Spring Driest On Record for State

Madison—Wisconsin has been drier than the Sahara this spring.

E. J. Vanderwall, in charge of forest protection for the conservation department, has reported to the conservation commission that humidity as low as eight has been recorded at Rhinelander and lows of 11 and 14 have been reported in other parts of the forest protection districts.

"We can find no record of such low humidities and extraordinary dryness of the atmosphere ever before in the Lake States," Vanderwall said.

A total of 693 fires burning more than 5,700 acres occurred from April 14 through April 28 and the forest protection organization was busiest on April 21 when 125 fires burned more than 800 acres. While the fire season started later than usual this year, conditions were described by Vanderwall as actually "explosive" on many of the days.

The spring record shows that up to May 6 Wisconsin had 836 fires which burned 7,700.81 acres, a burn of 8.69 acres per fire.

Berlin Reports Wedge Between Dutch, Belgians

The news agency asserted about 18,000 Dutch soldiers, including a general and his entire staff, had been captured in recent fighting.

Continued action on the west wall front was reported in the sector southeast of Zweibrücken, opposite the French province of Lorraine, where the high command said the Germans had advanced.

Concerning developments in Norway, DNB said German mountain troops had taken 300 prisoners, mostly British, in a fight at Mo north of Trondheim.

Informed sources said the encirclement of southern Holland was virtually complete and that Nazi forces had reached a strategic—but unnamed—point to intercept allied troops rushing to aid the Dutch. Rumors that the Belgian city of Antwerp already had fallen were denied in official quarters, but they intimated its capture could be expected soon.

No definite information was available here concerning the whereabouts of former Kaiser Wilhelm, who has been exiled in Holland since the end of the World War.

Kaukauna Track Squad Performs Against Menasha

District, Kimberly and State Contests Will Complete Season

Kaukauna—After taking second place in the district trials at Neenah Saturday, Coach Clifford H. Kemp's trackmen will participate in four meets in two weeks to end the season.

This afternoon the Menasha Blue-jays are to appear on the local track. Menasha has not made much of a showing so far and the Kaws should win easily. Saturday the thirteens will go to Neenah for the Northeastern conference meet. Tuesday Kimberly is to appear here and a week from Saturday the state meet is scheduled at Madison.

Kaukauna has five athletes who earned the right to go to Madison by finishing first, second or third in the district meet. Although the Kaws previously won over Neenah in a dual meet New London's strong squad, which took part in the Wisconsin State trials, will be favored to take the conference title. Increased Revenue May Permit State to Expand Road Program

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—Continued increases in state highway department revenues gives rise to the possibility that the state's previously announced plans for a sharply curtailed 1940 highway improvement program will be modified, it was learned here today.

When a newspaperman directed Governor Heil's attention here this week to the fact that gasoline taxes have been consistently higher during many recent months than in corresponding months of last year, the governor said that he is watching highway revenues closely, and that he intends to employ such increases or anticipated receipts to expand the 1940 highway construction and maintenance budgets.

In order to leave money available for general state purposes, Governor Heil several months ago announced reductions approximating one third of the normal expenditures in highway maintenance and construction for the following two construction years 1940 and 1941.

Since that time, however, gasoline tax receipts have increased beyond the estimates of state treasury and highway department authorities.

The first three months of this year, for example, brought an increase of gasoline tax receipts of more than a quarter of a million dollars over the first quarter of 1939.

The comparative returns in motor vehicle licenses have also increased. It has been reported Moreover, the administrative costs of distributing licenses this year has been cut appreciably.

Figures on gasoline tax receipts for the first quarter of 1939 and 1940 were reported by the state treasury today as follows:

	1939	1940
January	$1,568,932	$1,602,718
February	1,355,870	1,541,892
March	1,223,915	1,365,176

Majority of U. S. Citizens Approve Hatch Act Principle

By Institute of Public Opinion Princeton, N. J.—Bitter and divided as many members of congress have proved to be over the extension of the Hatch act to cover state employees who receive all or part of their compensation from federal sources, the great majority of American voters reached in nationwide surveys have been in favor of the Hatch act principle throughout the debate.

Three months ago the American Institute of Public Opinion found 77 per cent of the voters in a national cross-section favored making it illegal to solicit campaign funds from federal employees.

In a new survey just completed an equally large majority are in favor of extending the same principle to state and local politics. Voters in each of the 48 states were asked: "Do you think it is all right to ask state and other local government employees for money for state political campaigns, or do you think this should be prevented by law?"

The answers of those with opinions on the question are:

PRACTICE ALL RIGHT 21% SHOULD BE PREVENTED 79%

Approximately one person in seven (15%) said he was undecided or had no opinion.

"All Right If Voluntary" Time and again those interviewed in the survey added that "it's all right for government employees to contribute if it's voluntary, but not if it's compulsory."

"I'm a state employee," one man said, "and when they put on the heat for contributions nowadays you just don't dare refuse. Soliciting is too kind a word for the strong-arm stuff that is used."

Others thought that soliciting should be prohibited because "it's just another way of making the taxpayers pay for political campaigns," or that "it's pretty close to graft."

Among those who thought the practice of soliciting funds should not be outlawed, the principal sentiment was that "those who get the political prizes should help to support their parties," and that contributions from office-holders is "the only way political parties can exist in some states."

Both Parties Agreed Outside of congress, the survey shows, the principle of the Hatch act is virtually a non-partisan question. Slightly more Republicans favor the idea than do Democrats, but the majorities in the rank-and-file of each party are overwhelming:

Practice Should Be All Right Prevented Democrats 25% 75% Republicans 17% 83%

Most opposition to the present Hatch bill has come from southern Democrats, headed by Chairman Sumners (Texas) of the house judiciary committee. Interestingly enough, Southern voters in the survey are more tolerant toward the idea of soliciting state and local employees than voters elsewhere.

THE FIFTH COLUMN IN HOLLAND AND ELSEWHERE

The term Fifth Column was spread before the eyes of men during the Spanish Revolution and has come to convey a significant blow in the way of meaning.

The Dutch claim that for a year or so German refugees have filtered across the border begging asylum from Nazi persecution. Some of them had balances in Dutch banks and elsewhere. Some carried considerable funds with them. But the Dutch were not suspicious and received them with sympathy, permitting them to take up homes and establish themselves in business.

It now appears, the Dutch declare, that this was a planted army. Instead of being refugees from alleged Nazi cruelties these men were fanatics in the Hitler service. Their fires of zeal burned so intensely they could even be permitted for long periods of time to absent themselves from the source of enthusiasm and exultation in Berlin.

But the members of this Fifth Column had definite duties. They were to attack in the rear and bring confusion to the people and the army of Holland. They were also to coordinate the movements and objectives of parachuted troops. Without their assistance the soldiers dropped from airplanes would be both lost and helpless.

Thus America sees another feature of the panorama of life, of people, of treachery, of hatred and of duplicity. Insofar as providing us with lessons in the affairs of life and government Europe is a wonderful instructor, but are we pupils who learn aply or are we stupid?

The Fifth Column in Holland was not limited to German refugees. The Hitler government is much too smart to omit employing every disgruntled element of a population. It had the advantage of the Communist cells in Rotterdam and Amsterdam. It had the active participation of all those who would sell out home, family, friends and country either for gold or for a promise of power in the government to be set up on the ruins of the past.

There has been a Fifth Column in France and in England. There is a tremendous Fifth Column in America. The size of the Fifth Column in any country is a reflection of the brains that direct its affairs.

Nowhere has the Fifth Column become so obvious as in America. Here the President shakes it by the hand, Lady Roosevelt pats it on the back, and it is given lucrative positions on the government payroll.

America sees what transpires elsewhere with the Fifth Column but it is still a question whether America is able to learn.

RUSSIA STANDS IN A GREAT FEAR

From the Volga Russia continues in a dark and a gloom mood.

Happy enough to be free from the dangerous adventure in Finland the Moscow tyrants realize full well that so long as armies are on the march there is no telling which way they will turn and just where they will end up.

The cables said that at the instant the Germans invaded Norway a German diplomat was calling on Molotov at Moscow presumably to justify the Hitler movement into Scandinavia. This was followed by a declaration that the Soviets were reviving discussions for a trade agreement with Great Britain which in turn appears to have been discarded since London demanded the right to ascertain whether goods shipped to Russia would be reshipped to Germany.

Nobody would think of trusting Moscow for a moment. And Moscow trusts no one either. Certainly Hitler suffers no illusions in respect to Stalin. He knows that Comrade Josef hates him worse than poison ivy because he fears him, and trusts him just as far as he would a cobra. All of which is a fearful but accurate way of stating his feelings and attitude toward the Russian tyrant.

Not one word from any of these men could be relied upon for 24 hours. Any saloon bum swiped out with the sawdust in the morning is more particular of his reputation for truth and veracity than any despot in Europe.

Stalin is wide awake to the dangers he faces. He knew them well when he tried to curry favor with Hitler to avoid a possible German attack. But he lives in constant dread of further demands upon him from Berlin, of a possible change in Nazi policy and of a reappearance in those gleaming Hitler eyes of that wistful fondness for the Ukraine.

It has been heretofore the great fortune of the world that organized ruffianism never stayed friendly with other organized ruffianism for long. Somehow it seems to be the natural thing for men so motivated to fly at each other's throats as they vie for supremacy among the blood-spillers.

If the Nazis simply must have a war and they wish to accomplish some good by resort to arms why not turn to the east where the Soviets chatter tremblingly as they tell how they have been itching for a fight for so long?

THE SAD CASE OF QUARRELING BROTHERS

The distressing facts of the clash between Ned Sparks Ickes and the editor of the Fort Worth, Texas, Star-Telegram have been preserved in the archives of the Department of the Interior as shedding some sort of a light, bluish probably, upon the fateful history of the day.

Mr. Ickes took a trip to Texas along with some other of the numerous crowd whose time is paid for by the bent backs of Americans, whereupon the editor extended himself thus:

"The inimitable Mr. Ickes, sometimes termed the hatchet man of the Hop-happy Tong, wants to see with his own eyes whether the Texas oil fields are really big enough to justify all the labor he has put into the effort to take production control out of the hands of the State into those of his own Department of the Federal government. By a happy coincidence, a bushwhacking detachment from Austin will be on the move in the direction of Fort Worth at about the same time."

But that was not all. There were other references disruptive of the peace of mind of Harold the Snappy. There was a comparison to the "Carpetbagger Era" with all that that means to the proud and haughty southern gentleman. This was too much for Mr. Ickes. Anything is almost too much for that gentleman. He usually boils at about 76 degrees Fahrenheit and only in a few winter months does it drop below that in Texas.

So Mr. Ickes took his gray goose quill and wrote while his scalding tears blotted the page. Yeah, then did his mighty heart almost burst. Such ingratitude! Such rank ingratitude!

If there is anything worse than a Southerner can call anyone than a Carpetbagger it has never been printed. In his letter the noble New Dealer closed with these tearful words:

"I have gone to Texas bearing gifts—rich gifts—not a few of them eloquently solicited by the Great Editor of Fort Worth—and you never thought then of calling me a Carpetbagger."

And now it was the turn of the Fort Worth editor to get out his sackcloth. He was not of the opinion that these "rich gifts" belonged to Mr. Ickes. He was not of the opinion that the borrowed money was poured into Fort Worth just for its political pull in the Administration. He had thought that it was all according to great plans of great planners who were to bring perfection to a theretofore planless country. Alas! Alas!

The shades should now be quietly drawn. No further should we seek to pry into the throbbing emotions of those who have temporarily lost control of themselves. It is a broken-hearted affair when those who have pulled at the tugs so lustily and merrily begin snapping at each other.

It is almost as if Goering insulted Goebbels.

THE SOUTH AND THE NOOSE

A full year has passed during which no mob violence ending in lynching has occurred in the South.

Compare that year with 1892 when 231 mob killings occurred below the Mason & Dixon line and the extent of improvements will be noted.

The head of the Association of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching gives credit for the commendable record to "swift action made possible by police radios and the highly mobile state trooper units which employed a new technique in combatting mobs plus publicity which has torn the mask from off lynchings and could not be turned into a hushing up process."

The advance signalled by this record is not to be minimized or ignored. It is highly credible. There are other spots in our civilization that do not look so well. One of them, having to do with the South, is the rebirth of the Klan. We suppose a black man sees little difference between being flogged to death by masked marauders and hanged by an unmasked mob.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

YOUNG SHUT-IN

When she was ten years old, she said good-bye to playing games and skipping in the sun. The windowpane holds her one bit of sky; Only in dreams can she arise and run.
Her mother could placate her with a doll. And bring her joy with a new picture book. And she was a child, and nothing could befall But would be softened by her mother's look.
Her young friends came to see her, but the years Have brought new joys to them. Some girls have married.
And there is little time for smiles and tears For one whose youthful hopes have long been buried.
Her mother plays: "Lord, spare my child the loss Of friendship" knowing as she lingers there Beside a still white bed, there is no cross In all the world so difficult to bear!

BY DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Washington—Some devastating criticism of the British army has been cabled out of Norway and London, but it was not half so critical as the confidential information collected by our own military observers and cabled back to Washington.

This information describes inefficiency, stupidity and lack of coordination almost beyond belief. Also it reveals that Hore-Belisha, deposed war minister of the Chamberlain cabinet, was absolutely right in advocating reorganization of the army.

Here are some of the unbelievable boners pulled by the British army in Norway:

1. When the British landed at Andalsnes, they put ashore 460 anti-tank guns, but not a single round of ammunition for them. The ammunition was down in the hold of another ship.

In short, the British have not yet remedied the mistake they made in the Boer war (1899). They learned then that when a landing party goes ashore, it must be equipped with everything it needs, ready to go into action the minute it sets foot on land.

The United States army made the same mistake in the Spanish-American war, but has remedied it since. The British, however, dumped their goods on the shore in Norway, then proceeded to sort them out and distribute them.

CUT TO RIBBONS

2. When the British landed two battalions at Namsos, they were without a single anti-tank or anti-aircraft gun. Yet their commanders knew they had to face German forces equipped with the latest tanks and supported by airplanes. As a result, the British were cut to pieces. One battalion lost 45 per cent of its men, the other 30 per cent.

3. There was absolutely no coordination between British land and air forces. The Royal Air Force is completely independent of the army and navy. This means that today, if a British army commander in France wants more air support, he has to telegraph back to London, which then gives orders to the air force. And what does a pundit sitting at a desk in London know about actual needs in the front line trenches?

In contrast, the German commander, General Von Falkenhof, was in complete command of German land, air and army units. He was also in command of communications, so no message could go back to Berlin without his permission.

MILITARY JEALOUSY

The same jealousy exists between the British air force and the navy which once existed between United States armed services. For instance, the Royal Air Force limits the number of planes to be carried on airplane carriers (even though they come under the navy), and failed to replace those destroyed during normal pre-war operations. Result was that the plane carriers operating off Norway were short of planes.

According to United States military experts, all this is a outgrowth of the inertia and caste system of the British army. Officers get their rank through birth and social position, not ability. There is more emphasis on tradition than efficiency. "If it was good enough for my father it is good enough for me," has been the watchword of the British military (perhaps also of the Chamberlain cabinet).

Leslie Hore-Belisha started to root out some of these evils, but did not go nearly far enough. He only irritated the military nobility, without getting at the real weaknesses.

BABY SENATOR

Today's primary in West Virginia marks the end of one of the bitterest feuds in the senate—that between able Senator Matthew Neely and baby Senator Rush D. Holt.

They have not spoken a single word to each other for over two years. When Neely took the oath of office after re-election, Holt refused to walk down the corridor with him, as is customary, while he placed his hand upon the Bible.

But today, they are united in opposing the West Virginia State house gang, Neely running for governor and Holt for senator.

That much is well-known. But the little dramatic incident which buried the hatchet has not been told. Neely had urged certain patronage appointments, mostly postmasterhips, and he wanted them badly. But the appointments were held up by Holt, who is a member of the senate post offices committee.

One day when Neely's candidates were brought up before the committee, Holt suddenly "lifted his finger"—that is, indicated his approval of the Neely men.

When the committee broke up, he encountered Senator Neely at the door. "Is that satisfactory to you, senator?" said Holt, and Neely said it was.

That was all. After that, they got together for re-election.

LOUISIANA PURCHASE

Beginning with the inauguration of a new governor today, Louisiana kicks out the Huey Long machine and allegedly turns over a new leaf.

But beginning today, also, Louisiana is in for more trouble. For one of the chief leaders among those who supported Governor Sam Houston Jones, and who will sit on the platform with him today, is being investigated for income tax evasion. He received certain funds from an oil company and forgot to chalk it up on his income tax.

This was in 1936, so the statute of limitations may have run out. But it has not run out on mail frauds, and the federal government, to be consistent, may have to prosecute.

Simultaneously, Governor Jones faces some severe tests. The whole United States is keeping an eye on him, especially certain Washington officials who helped pave the way for his election.

Real fact is that the justice department merely skimmed the cream in cleaning up Louisiana. It took the cases which fell under federal laws. There were scores of others which might come under state laws.

GIFT FROM GAS

For instance, one of the cases of alleged bribery was a gift of $125,000 to ex-Governor Leche from the United Gas Improvement company, a subsidiary of Electric Bond and Share. On the witness stand, Governor Leche admitted that he had received this money. In fact, he was careful to put it in his income tax return. Therefore the government had no case against him.

Furthermore, Tom Hill, political agent for United Gas, admitted on the witness stand that he had given this money to Leche. He said he considered it beneficial to the public relations of United Gas to have Governor Leche friendly. United Gas testified that it got no tax benefit from the gift, so Assistant Attorney General Rogge decided there was nothing illegal in the transaction under federal laws.

United Gas has a tremendous hold on the State of Louisiana. So also has Freeport Sulphur, a Mellon company. Both are reported to be friendly to new Governor Jones.

So it will be extremely interesting to watch the relations between them. State laws go much further than federal laws—if enforced.

GOLF FOR TOMORROW

Editor Post-Crescent—I believe that almost every amateur golfer in the city has made some sort of a sketch of a lay-out for the proposed addition to the Municipal golf course. This does no harm, and, in fact, I believe it to be a good thing, because exchange of ideas never hurts anyone; and out of good constructive criticism of these plans there should come some good suggestions. This improvement is for many years to come, and if I thought this golf course was to be torn up in the next five or ten years for other real estate improvement, I would not be in favor of building on this site at all.

First, there is the fact that we want a good 18 hole golf course, and not a make-shift one.

Second, we should all realize that the project as proposed now, that is, buying the property on the east and the west of the present course, does represent a rather difficult problem for a lay-out. There are many things to be considered when building a golf course, especially for public play.

Congestion of play is one of the most important problems. The mere building of 18 holes, if they are not constructed properly will not relieve this congestion. Sufficient yardage is of the utmost importance so that the holes may be of the proper length to permit holiday crowds to play in safety. Par 4 holes of 275 yards and par 5 holes of 425 yards are not considered long enough for a public course. Even short holes should not be in excess of two to each nine holes, and even one in each nine is preferred.

Number one and number ten holes should be long and flat to facilitate the rapid starting of the foursomes. The holes should be so placed as to discourage the dodging of players from one hole to another out of the proper sequence of holes. Such a practice is annoying and dangerous to other players.

It is going to be difficult to connect four holes on one side and five on the other to the present course so as to incorporate all the desired improvements. Because the property was too narrow for its length, the present golf course was never quite right. Four parallel fairways were necessitated which is bad even for a private course where play is not nearly as heavy as on a public course.

Therefore, I think the wise thing to do after the necessary options are procured on the abutting property, would be for our Park board to get a really good golf architect of reputation up here to advise us as to what can be done with the land before the city buys anything.

With the amount of money the city will be asked to expend on this improvement; I am of the opinion that it would be utterly folly to attempt anything without first class plans. The city as it stands would have been it building or laying-out a new park. This is definitely not a proposition for the amateur draftsman.

We do not want to buy a cat-in-the-hat. We want a fine golf course: one that the city can be as proud of as it is of the other beautiful park improvements. I have been interested in the Municipal Golf Course since its inception, and I would like to see this present job done right, as I am sure all good golfers do.

Just a Step Behind the News

By Dave Boone

Hitler certainly has shaken all the heavy sleepers, including the United States, out of their pleasant dreams. It's pretty clear to the country today that it's been raking leaves while the fences burned. Even the pacifists are fighting mad now.

The Nazis are giving a demonstration, and in technicolor, of the fact there is nothing more foolish than for any peaceful nation to assume she can count on peace unless she has the weapons to fight for it.

Uncle Sam knows now that he has got to get into fighting trim, and how he wishes he had some of those billions he blew in for such great national defenses as playgrounds for grown-ups, pie from the sky projects and copper-lined trousers.

Watch that debt limit get torpedoes! And if you're sore over high taxes just forget it; you ain't seen nuthin' yet.

Now that the country has seen what a ruthless, inhuman and perfectly equipped country can do to those that have been concentrating on the more abundant life with mandolin accompaniment, there's going to be a rush to get into fighting trim against all comers. Where's the money coming from? You'll find out.

The tax collectors have been coming by auto. From now on they will be dropping on you with parachutes.

Ask Johns to Speak In Hollywood Bowl

Washington—Congressman Joshua I. Johns, Algoma Republican, is invited to speak in the Hollywood bowl on May 19, which is "Citizenship day."

Altogether 25,000 people, made up of members of civil organizations, churches of all creeds, boy and girl scouts and other groups, are expected to be present on that day.

The celebration is to be sponsored by the "I Am An American Foundation" of which Benjamin E. Neal, Hollywood songwriter, is president and actor Edward Arnold is an officer.

Johns, who is responsible for legislation authorizing the president to proclaim the third Sunday in May as citizenship day, is expected to make his debut in the movie plans provide for news reels of the celebration, to be shown in theaters throughout the country.

WHITHER?

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—Perhaps the most important piece of news coming from the Democratic caucuses at the capital during the last few days is the probability that National Committee Chairman Charles E. Broughton of Shelbyville will be chosen for a third term by the Wisconsin delegates to the Chicago convention.

Although the margin will be exceedingly close, Broughton's continued dominance of the Wisconsin party seems assured. In fact, the Broughton men are now so sure of themselves, in contrast to the worried looks they wore several weeks ago, that they are already beginning quiet work on drafting a state ticket this year without consultation with the Keller insurgents who nearly succeeded in challenging their leadership in the April primary.

TICKET NAMES

The prospective ticket now being discussed begins with the name of Daniel Grady of Portage, widely known orator of the silver mane, for the United States senate against Bob LaFollette.

Now under normal circumstances few observers in the capitol would talk about Grady being a candidate for anything seriously, because the same kind of gossip has been revived in every election in the present decade. However, the Democrats booming him say that they have his assurance that he will run, given a guarantee of united Democratic support. They hint, very suggestively, that Brother Phil LaFollette's humiliating removal of Dan from the university board of regents a couple of years ago, a post he loved, may have something to do with his present inclination to oppose Broughton.

There is more tangible evidence in the matter of governorship candidates, however. Here the Broughton strategists can be relatively sure of two prominent names, while a third is probably available for the asking.

Principal contenders for first place on the Democratic state ticket at the moment are Senator Cornelius T. Young, one of the ablest of the younger Democrats in the state, and William E. O'Brien, widely known engineer and city manager, and for more than half a dozen years a member of the state highway commission. (Curiously enough he holds his present job by the appointment of Governor Heil, against whom he will probably run if chosen by Democrats.)

However, a third possibility is former Senator John E. Cashman of Denmark, a firebrand and a man valued because of his appeal to the rural vote, of which the Democrats will need much this year. Cashman is now an announced candidate for a return to the state senate as a Progressive, but Democratic spokesmen in his district are confident that he can be interested in a Democratic candidacy for governor.

It is not yet known if several years ago Cashman toyed with the idea, but hesitated to give up a sure senate seat in a gamble for something better.

The strategy of the Broughton regulars is to approve a slate at the Green Bay convention in June, and thus give it a running start over opposition ticket which may be entered by the Keller unit of the party.

The latter have been holding out for an open primary, believing perhaps, that in a wide open contest their men may yet out the regular leadership. Most probable choice of the rebels for the governorship is Gustave J. Keller of Appleton, although he has yet given no indication that he has made up his mind. Keller, relatively unknown until this year, made a good run as a del-

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

TOBACCO HOG

Ten percent of all patients who complain of "acid stomach" have ulcer (stomach or gastric ulcer, duodenal ulcer, peptic ulcer, as it is variously called). At least they have the ulcer symptom-complex, that is, this rather characteristic arrangement of symptoms—pain, food, comfort for a while, then pain again, relieved by food, comfort, pain again etc., day after day, week after week.

When we say the ulcer symptom complex perhaps we are crawling a bit, hedging on the diagnosis, for in a considerable number of cases of peptic ulcer symptom complex the victims have no ulcer but are suffering from excessive use of tobacco.

It wouldn't matter much if a doctor opened a case of gall-bladder trouble, with or without gallstones, expecting to find gastric or duodenal ulcer, but it would be annoying to open a case of peptic ulcer symptom complex and find that the patient has been smoking too much. In the first instances the doctor might do something to the gall-sac or the gall-stones, and then the rest in bed, low diet and everything would probably do the patient good anyway. In the second instance the crocheting work and the tedious confinement, even if the loveliest nurses are assigned to the case, would not be a great help in breaking the habit.

Unfortunately you cannot deduce from the foregoing that if a person indulges in tobacco to excess her duodenal ulcer symptom complex cannot mean actual ulcer, for too often that is just what it does mean. I mention the fairly frequent occurrence of the symptom complex, without ulcer on the chance that it may catch a few young women in time and induce them to stop smoking before it is too late.

Easier said than done, I admit. However, speaking as a smoker who has tried both ways, that is, hogishness and temperance, I have found far greater enjoyment from smoking only after dinner for the first smoke of the day than from smoking all day.

If you can't stop smoking you can at any rate use moderation. For example, it is utterly inexcusable to smoke before breakfast or for that matter within an hour before any meal. It is downright gluttonous to commence smoking at table when people are still eating. A single puff of tobacco smoke at such times does more harm than many puffs after the meal.

A girl aged 21 and a girl aged 22 years smoked an average of 15 cigarettes daily over a period of two years; one had had the painful food-comfort-pain complex seven months, the other about a year. That is a fair indication of what it takes to get the complex. Of course individuals vary in their sensitivity to tobacco, as well as in their habit in regard to smoking when the stomach is empty, or smoking too fast.

Two effects of smoking are striking and worth remembering. First, a single smoke quickly produces stomach hyperacidity, secretion of too much hydrochloric acid. Second, a single smoke almost invariably produces elevation of blood pressure.

Heartburn, phorposism, "gas" or a sensation the victim ascribes to gas, are common complaints of intemperate smokers. While ten grains of calcium carbonate (prepared

City Pays Money Due Aldermen in Salary Dispute

Supreme Court Decision Costs Treasury $4,168 In Back Wages

Aldermen wore big smiles yesterday as they received their checks from Joseph A. Kox, city treasurer, in settlement of the council's wage suit against the city.

The state supreme court May 7 upheld the municipal court decision in the case and declared the referendum, adopted by voters and cutting aldermen's salaries from $500 to $250 per year, "technically invalid."

The decision cost the city of Appleton $4,168, the amount due aldermen on the basis of their $500 salaries, less costs in the case which amounted to $332 for the 18 aldermen. In addition the city's court costs in the case totaled $125.

The suit was brought against the city by the 18 aldermen after the referendum vote. The municipal court decision went to the aldermen on Sept. 23, 1939, and city officers appealed the case in behalf of the people in October.

The court decisions give the aldermen the right to collect $500 per year. However, last February, the council members cut their own wages to $400 and that amount will be paid to the nine aldermen elected last April. Those elected the previous year for 2-year terms will receive $500 until their terms are ended. The new aldermen elected next April will receive $400, unless the council raises or cuts the figures next February.

New Swimming Pools at Neenah Will Open June 1

Neenah — Neenah's new swimming pool will be opened to the public about June 1, and final preparations for the opening are under way, according to Paul Stacker, manager.

During the first week in June, Stacker reported, the pool will be open from 4 o'clock in the afternoon until 10 o'clock at night, but after schools have been dismissed for the summer vacation, the pool will be open all day.

Stacker said that the deadline for submitting applications for the recreation center personnel is today, and the attendants will be selected by the end of the week. Season tickets for the pool are being printed, and they will be put on sale by the end of the week.

When the pools, including the Olympic type pool, and junior and wading pools, are opened, it is expected that they will be able to accommodate more than 1,000 persons at one time. The big pool, which will take care of almost 1,000 persons, is 165 feet long by 65 feet wide with a graduated depth from 31 feet to 54 feet. The diving section of the big pool is 12 feet deep and 50 by 25 feet.

Junior, Wading Units

The junior pool, which will accommodate at least 100 children at one time, is 60 by 20 feet and from 11 to 14 feet deep. The wading pool, which will accommodate about 70 children, is 20 by 18 feet and a gradual depth from nothing to 10 inches.

The pools will be well illuminated for night swimming. For the underwater floor, there are seven 1,000-watt lights around the diving section and two 1,000-watt lamps opposite the diving section. There are 18 500-watt lights around the wall section, making a total of 27 lights underwater. There also are six pole flood lights with 1,500-watt lamps.

The filtering equipment is the most modern for the large pool. The filtration system consists of four filters nine feet in diameter as well as the necessary mixing tanks, co-ordinators and chlorinating filter. The water in the pool is circulated continually and at a rate so that there is a complete change of all water consisting of 500,000 gallons, every eight hours.

The Recreation commission will meet Thursday night at the center.

Warden Describes Conservation in Winnebago County

Over 20,000,000 Fish Planted This Year, Dunham Tells Lions

Menasha — A. F. Dunham, Oshkosh, state conservation warden, described conservation activities in Winnebago county at the Monday noon meeting of the Menasha Lions club at Hotel Menasha. Dunham told the club that 5,000,000 fish were planted in 1938 and 9,000,000 in 1939 while so far in 1940 the department already has planted 20,000,000.

He described the methods of handling law violators and reported that over 40 arrests already have been made this year. The department confiscated over 4,000 feet of gill nets as well as a large number of fish traps. Rough fish removed from Lake Winnebago last winter amounted to 125,000 pounds. During the winter sheephead congregated on the east shore of the lake and are seized there.

Dunham pointed out that it is difficult to plant fish because the fingerlings eat each other after they are two days old. They must be hatched within 48 hours after they hatch. He also described the fish hatchery at Weyauwega.

Asks Cooperation

Winnebago county ranked among the leading counties of the state in pheasant hunting last year. Dunham asked members of the club to cooperate with the department by reporting game violators.

Waldo Friedland, Sr. and Roy Gear spoke in behalf of the boy scout drive. A nominating committee consisting of A. J. Armstrong, chairman, O. K. Perry, Wesley Saecker, and A. F. Landig was named by R. E. Fahrback, club president.

Hollywood—A letter in this ayem's mail from one of our most publicized stars carried a just complaint — one that deserves real consideration from every news scribe.

"Some years ago," the letter states, "my wife and I adopted a baby. No parents ever loved a child of their own flesh and blood more dearly than we have learned to love him. Some day, of course, we shall have to tell him the truth, but we don't want him to know until he is old enough to understand that we can, and do, feel the same affection for him that the parents of his playmates feel for them. Until then, we believe it is important to keep him from getting the impression that he is 'different' than other children."

"But what chance have we if newspapers insist on identifying our boy as an 'adopted' child every time we are mentioned or pictured? I'm sure that news and caption writers make such a distinction thoughtlessly but the fact remains that they risk wounding helpless children by their carelessness. I have never 'squawked' at anything written about ME, but I don't want my child to be hurt."

I can throw no stones at other writers for I've often been guilty of the same thoughtless crime. And if it is a crime if by pointing out the fact that one child is adopted, another not, we take a chance on marring some youngster's happiness.

Far be it from me to predict disaster for the Mary Maitland-Halliday merger (on the contrary, long may it flourish!) but never did a bride wear a wedding band more suggestive of the hazards of Hollywood matrimony. Originally a "friendship ring" it was pressed into service because the pair eloped too suddenly to buy another. Predominant in its design are two clasped hands—and apropos of Filmmovie divorce habits is the fact that they can be UNclasp'd by the slightest pressure!

Retort of the season is being credited to Alan Baldwin, now going great guns at Metro. After being held under exclusive contract to Samuel Goldwyn for months, he was finally released without once facing a camera. Even so, his last goodbye to the great Sam was very courteous. Said he: "I'll get into pictures, sir, in spite of all you've done for me!"

Neenah Auxiliary to Legion Wins Second In History Contest

Neenah — Neenah's American Legion Auxiliary won second place in auxiliary history contest at the Sixth district spring conference of auxiliaries at Ripon last Saturday. Delegates were Mrs. R. C. Lowe, Miss Mary Romer, Miss Nellie Hubbard, Mrs. Leonard Koepke, Mrs. Chris Grunski and Mrs. Charles Sorensen, Jr.

Auxiliary to the Henry J. Lenz post of Menasha was represented by Mrs. Edwin Tratz, Mrs. John Backes, Mrs. Hugh Geibel, and Mrs. William Collins.

The Junior Auxiliary convention for the Sixth district is planned at Oshkosh, June 8, it was announced at the convention. The Neenah Junior Auxiliary has as its adult advisers, Mrs. Leo Madison, Mrs. Chris Grunski, Mrs. Jack Lisk, Mrs. F. Robinson and Mrs. Ray Vanderwalker.

Chief Game Warden to Address Rod, Gun Club

Neenah — Bernard Devine, chief warden of the Wisconsin conservation department, will be the guest speaker at the meeting of the Twin City Rod and Gun Club at 7:30 this evening at the Neenah city hall auditorium.

Three motion pictures will be shown at the meeting. They are "Sixteen," a film on forest fires produced by the conservation department; "Washington, Shrine of American Patriotism," and "Let's Go Fishing." The latter film stars Tony Accetta, national professional bait and fly casting champion. Ted Husing is the narrator.

Softball League to Open Season Tonight

Neenah — The Senior Softball league opens its 1940 season with three games tonight in the 8-team circuit.

In tonight's contests, Lakeview will play Neenah Milk Products at the high school diamond, while Mueller Tavern will meet Lakeview Recreation at Washington park diamond, and City Slickers will tangle with Legion at Columbian park. Krueger Hardware, last year's champions, was scheduled to meet Muench Recreation Wednesday evening at the island diamond, but the game has been postponed.

Hollywood—A letter in this ayem's mail from one of our most publicized stars carried a just complaint — one that deserves real consideration from every news scribe.

"Some years ago," the letter states, "my wife and I adopted a baby. No parents ever loved a child of their own flesh and blood more dearly than we have learned to love him. Some day, of course, we shall have to tell him the truth, but we don't want him to know until he is old enough to understand that we can, and do, feel the same affection for him that the parents of his playmates feel for them. Until then, we believe it is important to keep him from getting the impression that he is 'different' than other children."

"But what chance have we if newspapers insist on identifying our boy as an 'adopted' child every time we are mentioned or pictured? I'm sure that news and caption writers make such a distinction thoughtlessly but the fact remains that they risk wounding helpless children by their carelessness. I have never 'squawked' at anything written about ME, but I don't want my child to be hurt."

I can throw no stones at other writers for I've often been guilty of the same thoughtless crime. And if it is a crime if by pointing out the fact that one child is adopted, another not, we take a chance on marring some youngster's happiness.

Far be it from me to predict disaster for the Mary Maitland-Halliday merger (on the contrary, long may it flourish!) but never did a bride wear a wedding band more suggestive of the hazards of Hollywood matrimony. Originally a "friendship ring" it was pressed into service because the pair eloped too suddenly to buy another. Predominant in its design are two clasped hands—and apropos of Filmmovie divorce habits is the fact that they can be UNclasp'd by the slightest pressure!

Retort of the season is being credited to Alan Baldwin, now going great guns at Metro. After being held under exclusive contract to Samuel Goldwyn for months, he was finally released without once facing a camera. Even so, his last goodbye to the great Sam was very courteous. Said he: "I'll get into pictures, sir, in spite of all you've done for me!"

Menasha Garden Club Maps City Beautification Plan

Menasha—Initial plans for a city beautification campaign in Menasha, conducted in cooperation with public spirited merchants, were discussed at the Menasha Garden club Monday evening in the home of Miss Edna Robertson and Mrs. Van Buren Watkins, 515 Broad street.

All families in the city should be interested in this movement, the club officers stated. The campaign can be most effective by beautification of individual home grounds throughout the city, by creation of new parks and parkways and by transformation of eyesore spots into beauty spots.

Miss Ethel MacKinnon, chairman and Mrs. Charles Campbell were named as the first ward committee for the campaign. Mrs. W. G. Trilling and Miss Celia Boyce, second ward; Mrs. A. B. Jensen, Miss Barbara Thom and Miss Nell Webster, third ward; Mrs. R. C. Chandler and Mrs. W. J. Bauernfield, fourth ward; and Miss Edna Robertson, Mrs. F. Fitzgerald and Mrs. Watkins, fifth ward. Prizes will be offered for the properties showing the greatest improvements.

The club voted to revise the by-laws and Miss Elbe Mackinson, chairman, Miss Thom and Miss Boyce were named as the revisions' committee. The Menasha Garden club is arranging to enter a 1750 period colonial table, set in old pewter with an old fashioned arrangement of flowers, at the Wisconsin State Flower show, May 17, 18, and 19, at the Wauwatosa Field house. Mrs. Clarence Schultze will have charge of the exhibit.

Miss MacKinnon was named delegate from the club to attend the Wisconsin Roadside developments institute at Madison May 28.

C. L. Coon, head of the advertising division of the conservation department, was guest speaker for the conservation program which featured the meeting. Mr. Coon discussed the divisions of the department and their functions, pointing out that Wisconsin ranks first in the United States in fur farming and that last year it held the record in the country in the propagation and distribution of fish.

Maintains Nurseries

The forestry division maintains nurseries of evergreen seedlings which are sold for forest plantings and to individual farmers for windbreaks and other protective purposes. The revenue received from various sources amounting to approximately one and a half million a year, is used for maintenance of many state parks.

Last year, Mr. Coon stated, Wisconsin spent $67,000 for advertising the state. The advertising was carried in 21 American newspapers, 9 magazines and 45 highway signs. Besides this, there were 7,000 motion pictures shown outside the state and Wisconsin participated in many nature exhibits and outdoor shows. The speaker emphasized that about $200,000,000 is spent annually in Wisconsin by tourists. There are 56,000 square miles of vacation land available for rest and recreation purposes. Mr. Coon showed two movies, "Firemen in the Forest" and "New Forests on Idle Acres."

Menasha Band Boasts High Contest Record

Menasha—When the Menasha High school band was awarded a first division rating in marching Saturday at Kaukauna, the band continued a remarkable 10-year record in which the band has received a first division rating each year except for a second received at Wisconsin Rapids. The band started its record in 1929 at Milwaukee. The band also placed first at national tournaments.

Because of the age and experience of the players, the band competes in class B. At Kaukauna Saturday the Menasha band ranked among the leaders with first division ratings in concert, parade, and maneuvering and a second division in sight reading.

The DePere High school band received firsts in concert and sight reading and a second in parade. The Menasha High school a cappella choir entered its first tournament competition and received a second division rating in class B.

Mrs. Leo Cytinus, Mrs. B. Jerome, Mrs. L. E. Ozanne and Mrs. William Peterson presented two quartet selections. The vocal selection, "Blest be the Tie that Binds," by the assembly closed the program. Great Things are Expected In Stink-Bomb Competition

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—Great excitement prevails in the stage hands' and movie employees union or mob as the day approaches for the opening of the union's international convention in Louisville. Although that date, June 3, is still some time away, the stink-bomb teams representing Chicago, New York, St. Louis and Southern California are in a high state of competitive zeal as they face the blue-ribbon or champion-ship test for the John P. Nick trophy, one of the largest baubles in the realm of labor racketeering.

The John P. Nick trophy is an artistic work of extraordinary merit and graphic symbolism. It depicts an American mother and two little children lying in the aisle of a moving picture theater overcome by the fumes of a stink-bomb in the ventilating system and trampled in the ensuing panic, the group upheld by a huge, golden gorilla. It was named for John P. Nick of St. Louis, who was kicked out of the leadership of projectors' local 143 of that city by a court order and indicted on two charges of extortion, but acquitted on one charge after three mistrials, through a famous directed verdict which culminated in the Post-Dispatch contempt case.

Mr. Nick received his original appointment from George Browne, the international president, who also personally selected Willie Boff, the old pander as one of his personal representatives, and Nick Circella, a Chicago stickup man and Capone gangster, as another. Although officially removed from local No. 143, by a court order which has been affirmed by the Missouri supreme court, Mr. Nick remains a vice president of the international union, with the official support of Will Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who instructed the St. Louis central trades union not to seat the anti-Nick delegate.

Thus it will be seen, Mr. Nick is an illustrious figure and an inspiration to the minor leaders who will attend the reunion of the mob.

The art of stink-bombing has been developed to a high degree in recent years, but no mob has more reason to be proud of its progress in the specialty than the gorillas of stage hands' and movie employees' mob. As the technicians of Hollywood have improved the sound effect of the movie industry, the gorillas have matched them, stride for stride, or smell for smell, with new chemicals, the most notable being a secret formula known as buzzard's breath, invented in Chicago, which is expected to make a strong bid for the championship in the Louisville tournament.

New York Will Use The Knickerbocker Reek

The New York stink-bomb team has been working a recipe based on an old stench formerly used in the dry-cleaning racket, but greatly improved, and known as the Knickerbocker reek and the Southern California reek.

About 300 attended the confirmation reunion at St. John Evangelical church, Sunday evening. A special hour followed the service in the sub auditorium. Refreshments were served by the Evangelical league.

Mrs. Guy Daniels finished taking the census last Friday in the town of Cicero and Nichols.

Mr. and Mrs. William Volkman, route 2, entertained at dinner and supper Sunday in honor of their daughter Beulah's confirmation.

Guests were the Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Arthur Genske, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kettner, Mr. and Mrs. John Volkman, Sr. and Mrs. Orville Volkman, Mr. and Mrs. August Lumberg and children, Arthur Kettner, Earl Uhlenbruch, Miss Ebel Hanke, Roland Volkman, Black Creek, and Miss Alice Boldt of Appleton.

Mr. and Mrs. George Duhm entertained Sunday at dinner and supper in honor of the confirmation of their nephew, Le Roy Birmingham.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Birmingham and son Melvin, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Birmingham and children.

Discard From Dummy Called Crucial Point

BY ELY CULBERTSON

A hand from the recent Vanderbilt tournament in New York graphically illustrates the value of forcing an opponent to make an embarrassing discard.

South, dealer. Neither side vulnerable. Team of four, total point scoring.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	Redouble	Pass
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

North's opening bid was selected on the basis that if South were to respond with two clubs, North could stand this take-out and pass, whereas a spade opening bid by North might meet with a two heart response from South and this might be a playable contract. East was not strong enough to enter the auction offensively, but when the opponents stopped at one no trump, he felt that West must have scattered strength, hence reopened the bidding with a double in order to give West the choice of bidding for a part-score or leaving in the double in an effort to defeat one no trump. Unfortunately, East's double and West's leave-in both were highly questionable, and this applies with greater force to their acceptance of the redouble. Nevertheless, perfect defense would have defeated the contract, so I suppose their decision was not a bad one.

West opened the club deuce. East won with the ace and returned his fourth highest club. Declarer won and tried the diamond finesse by leading low to the jack. East won with the queen and laid down the club queen. West, not wanting to be on the lead on the fourth club, unblocked the jack, which would have turned out to be a mistake. East had read the situation correctly. East, however, took this unblock to mean that West wanted to leave him with another card of entry and interpreted this as the desire for an immediate heart lead, which would drive out dummy's queen. The problem was complicated, from East's point of view, by the fact that the location of the all-important diamond ten could not be known. If West had that card, East's nine spot would be another stopper. If declarer had it, it not only would become a trick for the opponents, but also would serve as an entry to the South hand.

These considerations, although disturbing, should not have prevented East from laying down the good club ten, but for some reason he failed to retain that card and switched to the heart ten. This was just what the declarer needed. He ducked from his king, and shifted to a spade. Dummy's ace won, the heart queen was cashed, and declarer entered his own hand with the diamond ten to cash the heart ace, then led his last diamond and cashed the ace and king. Thus the contract of one no trump redoubled was fulfilled, which meant a game for North-South.

If East had cashed his last club, the result would have been vastly different. The dummy could not have discarded safely on that trick! Obviously, it could not let go a sure diamond trick, hence either a spade or a heart would have had to be discarded. If the spade were selected, reducing dummy to 4-10-9, East would merely have to lead a spade. West's heart stopper would be intact, and the defenders would be sure of two spade tricks, three clubs, one diamond, and one heart. If, on East's fourth club, declarer chose to blank dummy's heart queen and retain all four spades, East would have to lead a heart, and in this case also, the contract would be defeated. The crucial point was for East to force a discard from dummy on the fourth club.

discolored? Try this method of "re-tinting" it. In the discolored utensil place six lemon halves from which the juice has been removed. Fill it with water and let the water and lemon halves simmer for 25 minutes. Drain, and then wash the utensil in warm water and soap suds. You'll find it will shine like new.

Use browned flour to make meat gravies more savory. Spread a thin layer of flour on a shallow pan, heat it in a moderate oven until it is well-browned, then cool and store the browned flour in a covered jar for use when needed.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

As dresses are definitely shorter, and as the knee-fashion season is at hand, no girl or woman can be called meticulous unless her legs are nicely groomed.

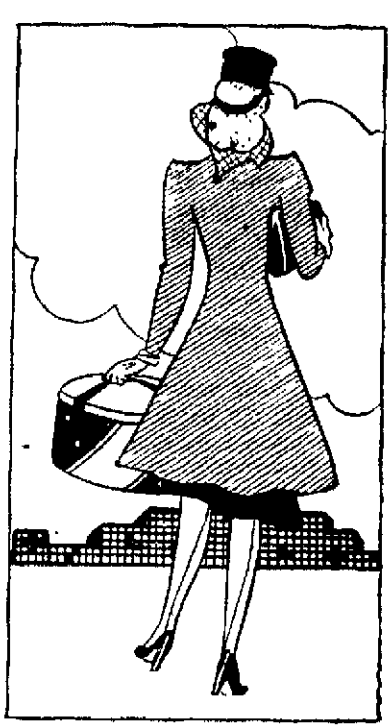

Sheer stockings reveal unsightly hair, and a very smart ensemble will lose all its dash if one's legs are not smooth. There are several reliable depilatories on the market, but any girl who prefers, may use a safety razor providing she soaps her legs before shaving them.

White gloves should always be fresh and so should lingerie touches. Soiled collars and cuffs quickly stamp their wearers as being careless. So do those which need cleaning or new heel lifts, spots on dresses, twisted stocking seams, dress hems hanging beneath coats, straggling ends of hair in back, soiled looking handbags and hat bands.

We know it takes time to correct all these little flaws in dressing but time should be taken if you want to look fresh and desirable. If you set aside one evening a week to check over your wardrobe, or one morning, you will soon learn how to schedule your laundry and mending so as to look trim as a button all of the time.

Plan In Advance
Business girls who have very little time to spend on their clothes find it most satisfactory to build a wardrobe around one color and one set of make-up. If you have many colors in your wardrobe you must wash each other with the dress sticks and nail polish and you must plan what you will wear far enough in advance to have time to change your nail polish and to tuck the right shade of lipstick and rouge in your handbag. We have become so color conscious in recent years, that no girl can afford to wear a lipstick or nail polish which will clash with each other or with the dress she wears. The most fashionable dress can look frightful if it is worn with accessories not keyed to its coloring.

The beauty of any hand is entirely ruined if nail polish is chipped or if it is painted on unevenly. Rather wear light polish, which is more easily applied, if you cannot paint your nails with a sure hand when you are using the vivid hues. It usually takes two coats of the vivid shades to cover the line where your finger ends and your nail continues and that means it takes twice as much time, for the job as one coat of polish must dry thoroughly before the second covers it. Lighter polishes have their problem too, for your nail border must be bleached and whitened. Naturally, fingers should be free of hangnails.

Another detail which many of us ignore is the proper application of lip rouge. Smeared, uneven lips certainly detract from beauty. Learn to apply your lip color with a lip brush or, if you have no brush, with the end of a paper match—one of those you tear from a packet of matches. Scratch that excess lipstick and use it to draw an even line just as you would if you were using a brush. Then fill in the outline with your lipstick. Most of us carry matches or can get our hands on one easily in a pinch!

My diet on how to gain weight is available upon request if you write for it care of this paper and enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope.

Teach Promptness by Making Child Conscious of Time

BY ANGELO PATRI

"I'm going down to the lot to play ball now."
"All right, but remember to get back here by five. You have to practice and set the table. Now don't forget. Remember. Five o'clock."
"All right, I'll be back."

Five o'clock—half-past—ten minutes to six—and then comes the boy, panting for breath and as dirty as a grimy boy can be.
"Didn't I tell you to get home by five? And didn't you say you would? Here I've been looking for you, waiting for you. Not even washed for dinner. Go upstairs and don't let me see your face again tonight. This is the finish."

Glad to escape, the boy races ahead upstairs where he makes a hasty toilet and waits for the dinner call which he knows is certain to come, for father will not allow him to go without his dinner. He is right. He is called to dinner. Mother looks severe but she is silent and serves him liberally. By and by father says, "What did you do today?"

"He played all afternoon and he never came home for practice, nor to help me, nor even to wash his face. That's what he did, if you ask me. And it is the last afternoon he goes out to play for the next month. He's going to learn to come home when he is told, or I'm going to know why."

Time Flies at Play
It is a provoking, and one cannot blame a mother for feeling put out by a thirteen-year-old boy who forgets his responsibilities. But he is still young, still inexperienced, and he does not mean to be as neglectful as he seems. He has no idea of time.

When a child is told to come home at a set time there ought to be some way for him to know when that time has arrived. Children at play lose track of time. An hour passes like five minutes. They are late before they begin to think the playtime ended.

Sometimes there is a train passing at the time set; sometimes there is a factory whistle, or a clock bell. Such things are a great help.

A Watch Will Do the Trick
But the best of all helps is the time consciousness of the child. Teach him that by giving him a watch and asking him to time himself repeatedly during the day. It takes a long time to make a child conscious of the measurement of time, but this is the best possible way to fix the idea in his mind.

"Go to the grocery store and carry back the order and time your self." "Sweep the yard and tell me how many minutes it took." "How long does it take you to walk to school?" Keep the idea of time measurement before him and let him have a watch to help him and he will learn to watch the time. With a couple of years' practice he will become time conscious.

It is scarcely reasonable to ask a child to come home at a set time unless he has some definite way of knowing when that time arrives.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to queries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Wife Who Asks for Truth Really Wants Compliments

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am married to a woman for whom I have great respect. She makes me a comfortable home and takes good care of me in every way, and I support her the best I can. We have got along fine together until she muddled up our lives by saying that she was very sincere and that she always preferred every one to be perfectly frank with her, so she insisted on my telling her just how much I thought of her. I told her I loved her, but only because she makes a good home for me and that I would love any one else as much who did the job as well as she does. I didn't tell her that I thought she was beautiful and grand and all that soft stuff. Well, it just came out. Seems like she was in a trance. Says she would be willing to live in a chicken coop and dress in a bag if she could just be sure that I loved her for herself alone. I don't know what to do. I am afraid she will leave me. If she does, we would both be the most lonely two on earth. I want her the same as she was before, but don't tell me to make love to her because I can't do it and she wouldn't believe me if I did. What's the answer? JACK.

Dorothy Dix

Answer:
I am surprised that a man of your age and intelligence and experience of life hasn't found out that when people tell you that they want you to be perfectly frank and tell them just exactly what you think, the truth is the last thing they desire. They are fishing for a compliment and would be beside you if you hang criticism instead of flattery on the hook.

And if this is the case with your friends and acquaintances, it is doubly the case with your wife. No woman ever wants to hear the truth about herself or have her husband tell her just how she stands with him in his secret thoughts. When one tells her husband that she wants him to be perfectly frank with her she is telling a far-fetched tale that makes it lucky for her that snap judgment isn't taken on liars, as it was in the days of Sapphira.

She doesn't want her husband to tell her that he considers her an admirable Christian character and a good cook and that he likes her because she keeps the house neat and clean and makes corned beef hash like his mother used to make.

But, of course, he doesn't think she is young or pretty, because there is nothing wrong with his eyes and he sees that she is getting middle-aged and fat, and that he doesn't pretend that she raises any thrills in his breast, because she doesn't.

Oh, no. What the wife who is clamoring for the truth wants her husband to say is that to him she is more beautiful than she was on their bridal day, and that she is the grandest wife any man ever had, and that what he would have been without her help he doesn't know. And so on ad lib.

And, whether it is true or false, the man is a chump if he doesn't say it. There are times when a husband should ditch the moral code and lie like a gentleman.

But I read between the lines of your letter that you are making a terrible mistake in thinking that you are not in love with your wife and that all that she means to you is just a household convenience for whom you have no warmer feeling than you have for the gas range or the electric refrigerator. If that was the case you wouldn't worry over her being melancholy, nor would you feel that you would be a forlorn and lonely old man if she would leave you.

Of course, you are not romantic. You have passed through the love stage when you wanted to kiss and hug and talk mushy sentimentalities and when you thought you would die if you had to be separated from her for a single day.

But that doesn't indicate that you have ceased to love your wife. In place of that flubdub kind of affection you have settled down into a friendship and companionship love, and that makes her a thousand times dearer to you than she was when you married her.

As to what to do, that is as plain as the nose on your face. Tell her that seeing her unhappy has made you realize that you were mistaken in your former diagnosis of your feelings.

Tell her what she wants to hear and don't worry about her not believing it. Women can believe anything they want to believe. It is a gift.

An Argument for Working Wives
Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a working wife. My husband has to wait for me to get home at night to cook his supper. I am cross and tired and hurriedly cook something—anything to call a meal. We have a 4-year-old boy whom my mother has to take care of for us during the day. Our case is the case of many others. My husband lost his job when the business he was in folded up in the depression. For two years he has been kicked around, here, there and everywhere, taking any kind of a job he could get, but averaging only about three months a year.

He has now got a position that has lasted six months. He makes $16 a week and I make fifteen. Between the two wages we get along, but if I were to stop working he could a family of three live comfortably and have nourishing food that would be required, especially for a child, on what my husband earns? Let the people who are getting laws passed to bar married women from working outside of the home answer that. My dream of heaven is looking forward to the day when I can stay at home and be the wife and mother I should be.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

Bankers are often abused and business men are bitterly attacked because they refuse to lend money or invest their own savings in such bonanzas as the one which was offered to me. If you have a world beater of an idea, prove it. If you cannot sell your product house-to-house on a capital investment of $25, why expect it to sell on a national wide scale after millions are sunk into it? Business is not child's play. It is a modern science.

CASE Q-162: Matilda K., aged 42, is a vivacious school teacher.

"A friend of mine has a great idea for making money," she explained.

"He wants $2,500 to start raising Angora rabbits. Their fur sells at a very high figure, and you can become rich in a few years."

"If you'll help me get the $2,500, well, we can raise $50,000, and in five years we can sell $75,000 worth of pelts and rabbits. The total cost for doing that amount of business is only $68,750, so we'd net over $200,000 in five years."

"Dr. Crane, isn't that an excellent investment?"

DIAGNOSIS:
You business men and women will instantly smile at the gullibility of this intelligent woman. Why did she swallow her friend's fancy scheme, hook, line and sinker?

Well, she was probably so fond of him that she believed whatever he told her. I didn't probe into that phase of the situation, but I mentally tabulated her as in love with her so-called business genius.

I then told her that my profession was so far removed from the rabbit industry that I wasn't a good judge of her proposition. But my barber used to be in the rabbit business and he barely broke even.

Another friend of mine, in Indiana, raises fancy rabbits of all breeds. I had visited his farm several times. I recalled his statement that the tariff had been taken off rabbit pelts so that American breeders now get about 10 cents apiece for pelts that used to sell at from 50 cents to $1.

So I asked Matilda if she was sure the foreign producers wouldn't undermine the Angora market? She hadn't thought about that possibility.

Horse Sense in Business
"Why haven't other rabbit fanciers made fortunes by this plan?" I went on. "My friend in Indiana has some Angora rabbits, and certainly ought to know whether it is possible to make money as you have outlined."

Furthermore, I pointed out that even wildcat stock salesmen wouldn't expect to cite a net profit of over $200,000 on only $68,750 operating expense.

"Use a little horse sense," I suggested. "Start, check on the facts yourself. Never take any glib salesman's unsupported testimony if it means sinking your savings into his proposition."

"Then consult experts in the field and get their advice. Rarely will an entirely new or unique business idea be originated, that other business men haven't heard about or even tried out."

"Third, be skeptical of any business venture that offers you more than 6 per cent or 8 per cent on your money in these days. Even your money is high. Success in business, as well as in the professions, is seldom accomplished by anything but slow, laborious progress. Business is no horse race."

The Science of Business
"Today business is quite scientific. It doesn't offer the 100 to 1 shots of the race tracks. When anybody attempts to make you rich in short order, always ask yourself why he feels so philanthropic in your direction."

"If his plan is such a money maker, why doesn't he keep a corner on it, and make all that easy money himself?"

Along the following line of reasoning, I asked her why she came to me for $2,500 and was willing to give me stock in the enterprise. Why didn't she and her friend keep all the stock and pocket all those wonderful profits?

She replied that they wanted to corner the market in a hurry. Why, she continued, even a housewife with $500 worth of rabbits could make $10,000 in five years, just having a little rabbitry as a pin money proposition!

So I advised her to keep mum, sink $500 in such a pin money proposition, and then in five years she'd have $10,000 and wouldn't need to cut me in on her bonanza for a mere $2,500.

LEAP BEFORE YOU LOOK

By Peggy O'More

Chapter 31
Girls And Horsewhips
Abe continued. "So Allen, he said the best way to discourage Pierre was to show him figures—"

"Figures?" interrupted Tom.
Abe nodded. "Dotty, she'd seen Pierre makin' a wax imprint of your desk keys that day we had the pewee about cutting down on expenses, so she went and got herself made one too, and as soon as she got the keys and you'd gone to bed, she got your books out and took some of the same kind Allen had bought for her. The she copied them, only she made them different."

"She sat up all night doing it and her eyes were plum wore out. But next day, sure enough, you'd no more than started to Los Angeles than Pierre come back and slipped into your office. He read them books he thought were yours, only they were the ones Dotty had put there when he was drivin' you to the train. And—"

Abe's breath went out in a long sigh—"when he saw you were sure goin' to lose the farm he figured he'd go back to Louisiana."

Tom's booted foot tapped the floor in growing anger. Dotty had made the books show such a loss the farm could not possibly reveal a profit at the end of the season. Wait until she got her hands on Dotty's lucky star, her that Gladys had broken a leg.

Then Tom sat up in sudden shock. If the books hadn't shown that decided loss, Pierre would still be here. Pierre—had he loved her. Had he meant any of the million of soft, sweet, sane, sure things he had said—wouldn't he have cared a tinker's dam about the farm?

Pierre had not been in love with Tom. Tom had been in love with love with French's Frog Farm. "Abe—" Tom's voice was stern—partly. But when and how can we then begin to receive a friend's?" The answer to this is very simple since invitations to the reception generally read half hour after the wedding. In any case, since the wedding party leaves the church at once, and always arrives home or wherever the reception is being held a little ahead of the guests, preparations could be made to have a tray of coffee and rolls waiting for them in the room where they are going to receive. The few early guests, who are certain to be members of the family, can very well hold off any early others at the door of entrance until the tray has been carried away and the bridal party is ready to receive. This much food should certainly be enough to tide them over until the real breakfast is served.

Expensive Jewelry With Every-Day Clothes
Dear Mrs. Post: Please, write something about the bad taste of wearing conspicuously expensive jewelry with sports clothes.

Answer: A watch, no matter how jeweled, a pin that holds the neck of one's dress together, one's engagement ring, an ornament, no matter what, that one never goes without, are each and all considered objects of utility (or of accepted association with one's personality) and are therefore suitable at all times. Such pieces of utility are worn even by people in mourning. Too many jewels at one time should be avoided. Often, too, there is danger of attracting the attention of thieves by jewels that are over-conspicuous. The only point against this (which I always undoubtedly know) is that the more exaggerated their size and conspicuousness, the more likely are they to be "costume jewelry" of gilt and glass!

Are you planning a small, home wedding? A large church wedding? Whether simple or elaborate, all the details will be correct if you plan with the help of Emily Post. Send for her book, "The Etiquette of Weddings," enclosing ten cents. Address Emily Post, care of Appleton-Post-Crescent, P. O. Box 73, Station O, New York, N. Y.

THE HOME GARDENER

By EDWIN H. PERKINS

To quickly cover an unsightly garden spot or for an abundance of shade for porch or arbor, try gourds. In addition, they will provide junior gardeners with an interest in flower growing and toys for many games. Handy juniors find the attractive fruits good material from which both dippers, balls and dishcloths can be made, while handy seniors find the odd-shaped fruits good materials for fashioning into indoor decorations.

Gourds do best in sunny situations. In all except the extremely northern sections, the seeds can now be sown outdoors where the plants are to flower. Where cold nights still prevail the seeds are best started indoors on sunny windowsills. Three seeds to a three-inch flower pot are about right. Weed out the two weakest growths when ready to set outdoors.

No special attention need be given if ordinary soil condition is maintained. Large fruits are the rule when normal soil fertility is provided, and small fruits, except in the purely decorative sorts, follow a deficiency of plant food. A soil suited to rose growing is ideal.

Among the varieties of gourds available in seed form are: Dishcloth gourd, the spongy interior of which, after drying, is used for dishcloths; the dipped gourd, easily made into water dippers with long handles; nest-egg gourd, used for darning and to fool chickens; bottle gourd, used by campers for keeping water cool; Turk's turban and many other ornamental kinds.

Fruits should not be handled until ripe. Maturity is indicated when the stems turn brown.

"What was in the letter Dotty found in Pierre's trousers?"
Abe shuffled his feet. His face turned crimson. At last he blurted, "Miss Tom, I can't tell. I promised Allen I wouldn't ever let you know."

"Why?" demanded Tom.
Again the shuffling of feet. "Well, Allen said once he found out a girl pretended to love him because he was handless a case she wanted to win. And he said findin' that out did somethin' to him inside that couldn't never be made right again. And he said you'd had enough heartbreak for one girl and he wasn't goin' to have you feelin' bad over no sum of the earth that wanted to get your inheritance by marryin' you."

Allen Bartlett had said that. Allen Bartlett had tried to save her from a heartache that he had suffered. And all of the time she had blamed him for Pierre's unceremonious departure.

Tom's face lighted. "Abe," she cried, "you're the only man on God's

TUESDAY'S GAMES

BY GORDON MCINTYRE
NIGHT baseball will make its 1940 debut in Appleton tonight at the West Spencer street field, the northwest wind and the weatherman consenting. The game is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock and the opponent will be the LaCrosse Blackhawks.

Manager Eddie Dancicak has announced that Bob LaCrosse, who won the opener, will pitch and Ben Beck of Menasha will catch.

Yesterday the Blackhawks scalped the Appleton Papermakers by a score of 7 to 0 as the locals failed to hit the slow ball curves of one Lefty Johnson, a half pint hurler. Lefty tossed a slow ball and then a slower one and occasionally put in a fast ball for the clincher. But most of the pitches were slow, so slow that even the bat boy figured he could hit one.

Our heroes, on the other hand, got four singles. The rest of the time they were popping out or getting infield rollers. Five of them were set down on strikeouts, usually a big, loping slow curve.

It was a poor exhibition and extremely so for some of the lads who may aspire to high honors. For one of the handful of spectators was Helene Groh, he of the famous bottle bat, and now a scout for the New York Giants. Groh has been making the Big Ten conference games, wandered into Milwaukee for a day or two and decided to watch a few state league games. He'll be around again this evening.

Big Stan Wilma was on the mound for the Papermakers and allowed 13 hits. He was in trouble early, but only three of the runs actually were earned off his delivery. The other four were the result of one of those things which never happen—a muff by Kubisak in centerfield on a ball that would have retired the side in the fifth.

LaCrosse got its first markers in the second. Hoard singled to center, Teeples rolled. Cyson, a left hander, then crossed up the Papermakers by lining one down the third base line for a triple. Johnson rolled but Schadt drew a walk and Haush smacked the triple into right. The blow went for a hit because Al Standaert, the right fielder, misjudged it.

The fifth saw four runs. With one away, Hoard singled to right, Teeples beat out a roller to third but Cyson was out at first unassisted. L. Johnson then walked to load the sacks. Schadt came up and lofted one to center. It appeared to be "in the well" but Kubisak dropped it and three runs came in. Schadt stopped at second and when Haush singled to right and the throw to the plate got away from Ivy, the fourth marker was tallied.

Appleton got only one man as far as third base.

Broadway Favors Yanks But at Much Shorter Odds

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK—(AP)—Trotters and pacers are all set to go under the lights at Mineola, L. I., soon now that the governor has appointed a commission. . . If George Preston Marshall was a baseball instead of a football baron, he'd go a long way to get Zeke Bonura and Buck Newsom. Estimates each is worth 75,000 paid admissions. . . Mail box: R. G. Lake Villa, Ill. Last heard of Alabama Pitts he was playing with a semi-pro nine in North Carolina. Broadway books still favor the Yanks, but at a much shorter price—4-5 instead of the 7-20 opening quotation.

And So It Goes
Here's Shirley Temple retiring at 11 with 3 million potatoes and comrade Whitney Martin quipping, "I reckon I'll be able to retire at three million with 11 bucks."

Rue de sockerue: Jenkins versus Armstrong has struck a snag. Jenkins won't sign at over 138 and Armstrong insists on 140. They'll probably compromise on 139. . . Johnny Paycheck is anxious to prove he isn't as bad as all that and wants to fight Red Burman free gratis on the Louis-Godoy card. . . How about giving the guy another chance? . . . Lou Ambers will take his first match as a welterweight soon after the stork visits his home in June.

Today's Guest Star
James S. Kearns, Chicago Daily News: "One line forecast: The U. of Chicago case will scarcely be mentioned at the Big Ten meeting, May 24-25."

Four regulars on the Michigan U. baseball team are graduates of Detroit's American League. Junior ranks. . . Freddy Fitzsimmons, the portly Dodger pitcher, needs only six more wins to run his National league string to 200. . . Glad to hear that move to Hank Crisp as director of athletics at Alabama has come a cropper and that he'll be back on the job in the fall.

Despite the fact it rained most of the afternoon, the few folks who were out to the game remained. Some had rain coats and umbrellas and others "look it." Once or twice the shower really was a downpour.

Heinie Groh, Giants scout, was back in familiar territory when he hit the Fox valley. Groh recalled that 30 years ago as a kid he came all the way from Rochester, N. Y., to play with the Oshkosh team in the W.-I. league. He recalled George Hovsiver as manager of the Appleton club at that time and intended to get over to the Elks club to see "Stormy."

Yesterday's umpiring was the worst so far. The plate umpire was Jakus, a rather portly gentleman who missed the count once, called a lot of high balls strikes and had a very amusing habit of dusting off only a corner of the plate at a time. The folks were much amused at his efforts with the broom. McKain, the third base umpire, attempted to handle the third base instead of the portly Jakus. As a result, Appleton claimed a hit because Al Standaert, the right fielder, misjudged it.

The fifth saw four runs. With one away, Hoard singled to right, Teeples beat out a roller to third but Cyson was out at first unassisted. L. Johnson then walked to load the sacks. Schadt came up and lofted one to center. It appeared to be "in the well" but Kubisak dropped it and three runs came in. 10 Vikings Will Vie for Midwest Circuit Honors

20th Annual Meet to be Held at Knox College, Galesburg, Ill.

Coach A. C. Denney, with 10 members of his Lawrence College track team and manager Ralph Seeger of Oak Park, Ill., will leave by bus Friday morning for Galesburg, Ill., and the twentieth annual Midwest Conference Track and Field Championships to be run on Willard field at Knox college. Led by Captain Ken Buesing, Appleton, who will compete in the quarter mile and who also will run one leg on the mile relay, the small squad will be represented in all events except the mile, the two mile and the javelin. Most likely to command attention on past performance is Vince Jones, husky Appleton weight man, who has on several occasions this spring passed the conference shot put record at present held by a Lawrence man, John Vogel. The record, set in 1935, is 46 feet 10 1/2 inches. Jones in a recent dual meet with Ripon registered 48 feet 13 inches.

Three other Appleton men will be among the 10. Frank Hammer has been named by Denney for the broad jump; Ralph Colvin, sophomore for the half mile and one leg on the relay; and Wahy Cape for the 220 low hurdles and a leg on the relay. Glen Lockery, Rosholt, will complete the relay quartet and will also run with Buesing in the quarter mile Jim Orwig, St. Louis, a 159 high jumper and a 12-foot pole vaulter will compete in these events leaving, William Diver, La Grange, Ill., alone in the high jump. Completing the team is Richard Calkins, Racine, a half miler, and James Sattizahn, Elmhurst, Ill., who will run both dashes. Lawrence was forced to relinquish its title in the meet at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, last year and finished fourth. Ten of the 24 points were scored by Joe Graf, sensational dash man, and it is not expected that the loss caused by his graduation can be made up this year. Point winners of last season who still are present are Orwig, who finished third in both the high and low hurdles; Lockery, fifth in the 440; Buesing and Lockery were members of the fifth place Lawrence relay team, also.

"The league looks stronger all around," he asserted in commenting on the current race. "Teams like St. Louis and Philadelphia have improved and are really tough Cleveland, with a sweet shortstop in Lou Boudreau, is in the race to stay."

hours which was something. However, if the umpires had been a little more alert, it wouldn't have been started five minutes late. Late starts and long, drawn out games hurt baseball.

John Mize, Cardinals, and Bill Werber, Reds—Former hit three home runs and latter rapped out four doubles and single as two clubs battled through 14-inning tie.

Waukesha.—(AP)—Ripon defeated the Carroll college track team, 69 to 62, in a dual meet here yesterday.

'Getcha Score Card Here and Enjoy the Game'

No Real Fan Sits Through a Battle Without Scoring

Here's a Simple System You Can Use After Few Minutes Study

SURE you're a baseball fan and you like to sneak away from the office and see your home team play. And after the game you can go home and tell your neighbor, who couldn't get out to the park, all about how Bill Doakes' double in the ninth drove in the winning run. But the chances are you're missing a lot of the fun in baseball because you can't keep a scorecard. Would you like to know how? It's really very simple. Here's how:

First, you must know the player's numbers. Not the numbers on their uniforms, but the numbers for the various positions:

Pitcher, 1; catcher, 2; first base, 3; second base, 4; third base, 5; shortstop, 6; left field, 7; center field, 8; right field, 9.
You must also learn the symbols for the various developments on attack and defense. Here they are:
Base on balls B
Hit by pitched ball H Struck out K
Stolen base S Thrown out after strikeout X
Wild pitch WP
Balk Bk
Out stealing OS
Force out FO
Fielder's choice FC Error on ground ball E Throwing error T
Muffed fly or throw O
Sacrifice hit SH

Most scorecards are arranged with each player allotted a square made up of four small spaces around a diamond space in the center, for each inning. The small spaces represent bases and to score you start in the lower right hand corner box and go counter-clockwise.

For example, the first batter singles to right. You set down a line in the first box, slanting it toward the right. If the hit is to center field, the mark is straight; if it's to left field, slant it to left.

For a double, put the same mark in two squares; for a triple, mark three squares, and for a home run—you guessed it—mark all four. To denote the scoring of a run mark an X in the diamond in the middle. Mark down the outs, 1, 2 and 3, as you go along, in the diamond.

Suppose the batter hits to third and is thrown out at first. You put down 5-3 in the first box. If he flies to right field set down a B. If he walks, mark down a B. If he gets on safely, then is forced at second by the shortstop's throw, place a 6-4 in the second box and FO in the batter's first square.

Make sure that you account for every base. If Rucker walks and goes to second through something done by the second man in the batting order, put down a small 2 in the second square of Rucker's record. When the first man in the batting order advances a runner it is necessary to use an X instead of a figure 1. Figure 1 might be confusing.

Remember that it takes considerable time and practice to learn to score. So don't be discouraged if your first attempt isn't successful. Once you master the few numbers and symbols it won't be long until you'll be enjoying the pleasure of keeping your own scorecard. Then you can compare it with the official box score in Appleton Post-Crescent.

To further familiarize yourself with the system, study the accompanying scorecard of a recent New York Giants-Boston Bees game, along with a play-by-play account.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

NORTH SEA

Of all the seas and oceans I have crossed, the North Sea seems to be the most "choppy." I have found it so, and thousands of others have told much the same story.

The North Sea Area

Boarding a small passenger steamer at Newcastle, England, I was just in time for lunch. Side tables were spread with food which passengers were supposed to "sample" before they sat down to the real meal. It was the famous "smorgasbord," which is provided as a regular thing in the Norse countries.

"How well this steamship line supplies food for its passengers!" I exclaimed.

That meal I ate heartily, and so did others on board. We sat at a long table with the captain, the first mate and other officers.

At the next meal, some of the passengers were missing. The choppy sea had made them seasick. At the third or fourth meal, only one passenger besides myself was present.

Then came the last meal, and I was the only passenger who sat down to the table. I felt a bit dizzy, and ate one or two bites, then asked the ship officers to excuse me. I did not grow really seasick, but it was the closest call I have had while on salt water. Once upon a time, when I was 16 years old, I was seasick while crossing Lake Michigan, but that's another story.

The North sea stretches from Great Britain to Norway and Denmark. Parts of the coast are held by Germany, Holland and Belgium.

It is hard to mark an exact northern limit to the North sea. The custom is to draw a line from the Shetland islands eastward to Norway, and to say that is the boundary.

The area of this sea is about 180,000 square miles. Experts do not agree on the size, but the figure given may be taken as an average estimate. The North sea has almost as great an area as France. Its average depth is about 350 feet.

In past times the name of "German ocean" was used sometimes for the North sea. This name is seldom heard today. Great Britain's fleet kept it from being a "German ocean" in the World war, and the same has been true in the present war.

All his early business associates and contemporaries have died.

Mrs. Pelzer was 77 last Feb. 3. To the couple were born nine children, five sons and four daughters, all surviving. They are William Pelzer at Winona, Minn., also a tailor; Harry at Hartford; Otto at Elcho; Oswald at Delavan; and Theodore at Sheboygan; Mrs. Charles Ueckle and Mrs. Otto Krueger, Wausau; and Miss Viola Pelzer, Appleton.

What could be Sweeter!

Three good pals having fun together... a boy and his Dad and a new Plymouth!

That new Plymouth is far more than just a means of transportation. It's a favorite member of the family... a swell companion that adds pleasure to every trip.

The roominess of the new wide body makes you comfortable at home. Plymouth is the biggest of "All Three" low-priced cars; its 117-inch wheelbase is 4 inches longer than one, 5 inches longer than the other. The handsome instruments, the upholstery and appointments give you a wonderful sense of luxury.

Start the big Floating Power engine, Superfinished in its vital parts for longest life. Listen to the hum of great power. Finger the controls and realize the utter ease of making that power obey your every impulse.

Head out into the country. Just sort of play around with the car. Try out the zip of its pick-up. Touch the brake pedal and feel the velvety power of those double-actuator hydraulics. Feel how those coil springs of Amola Steel cushion the bumps.

Great engineering does all this—in a low-priced car you can easily afford—a car of outstanding economy in operation and upkeep. Go to your nearby Plymouth dealer's today. See the 1940 Quality Chart for facts—take the Luxury Ride for proof. PLYMOUTH DIVISION OF CHRYSLER CORPORATION MAJOR ROWES, C. B. S. THURSDAYS, 9-10 P. M., E. O. S. T.
